The Terms of Peace Read in the French Assembly.

Withdrawal of the Germans as the Conditions are Fulfilled.

The Victors to Enter the City of Paris Today.

Belfort the Price of the French Humiliation.

All the German Armies to Enter Berlin in Triumph.

Repetition of Agrarian Murders in Ireland.

THE CONDITIONS OF PEACE.

Reading of the Terms in the French Assembly—Additional Particulars of the Conditions—Rothschild Promises to Pay the Indemnity in a Year—Frederick Charles Governor of Champagne.

BORDEAUX, Feb. 28.—President THIERS read to the Assembly today the conditions of peace.

France cedes one-fifth of Lorraine, including Metz and Thionville, and all of Alsace, except Belfort, and pays an indemnity of five milliards of francs, one milliard this year, and the balance in three years. The German troops will gradually withdraw from French territory as the payments are made.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The evening edition of the Times contains a special dispatch from Versailles, today, which gives the following additional particulars of the treaty of peace signed on Sunday:

The fortified cities of Luneville, Nancy and Belfort are left to France.

Longwy, Thionville, Metz, Saarbrück and the iron districts will go to Germany.

The Times special also says:

M. ROTHSCHILD promises to pay the entire indemnity to Germany within a year, by which the German army of occupation will be got rid of at the end of that time.

Prince FREDERICK CHARLES is to be Governor of Champagne, with head-quarters at Rheims.

Stipulations Regarding the Withdrawal of the Germans—How the Departments are to be Evacuated.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—It is stated that the occupation of the Departments south of the Seine ceases after the ratification of the treaty, and that of the other Departments after the payment of five hundred millions of the indemnity. The fortresses are to be occupied until the entire indemnity is paid.

PARIS.

The Entry of the Victors to be Made Today—Appeals of the Press to the Citizens to Maintain Order—The Bourse and Theatres to be Closed.

VERSAILLES, Feb. 22.—Everything has been prepared for the entry of the Germans into Paris. The issue of the final orders has, however, been reserved until to-morrow.

The agitation in Paris continued throughout yesterday, but there was no disorder.

A manifesto signed by the editors of forty-three newspapers exhorts the people to calmness and dignity under their approaching trial.

The Bourse and theatres will be closed during the occupation of the city.

The German troops will be strictly confined to their quarters while in Paris.

The powder magazine at Vilette has been pillaged by soldiers.

The German Price for Entering the City—Barricades Around the Portion Occupied by Them—Parisians to Remain Secluded—Excitement in the City on Monday—The German Emperor Merely to Pass Through Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 27, via LONDON, Feb. 28.—Contributions and requisitions are to cease.

The Germans will enter Paris on Wednesday, and will evacuate the city immediately upon the ratification of peace.

The Prussian Army will occupy the left bank of the Seine. No Frenchmen in uniform are to be allowed to enter the German portion of the city, which will be surrounded by barricades.

There was much patriotic agitation on Sunday night in consequence of a report of the immediate entry of the Germans, and the Guard erected ramparts in the Champs Elysées to repel the enemy. There was, however, no disturbance.

At midnight of Sunday quiet was restored, but on Monday morning the city was again agitated. Crowds surrounded a notice signed by M. PICARD, and which had been placarded in various parts of the city, appealing for the preservation of order and dignity. A crowd also invaded the prison of Saint Pelagie, and freed two commandants of the guard who had been placed under arrest.

All the papers, even the ultra radical, recommend non-resistance to the entry of the Germans.

All the papers will abstain from publication during the occupation.

It is believed there will be no conflict.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—The Patrie says the question of the entry of the German Army into Paris occupied the negotiators ten times longer than those of territorial cession and indemnity. Many of the citizens have purchased a week's provisions to avoid appearing in the streets during the German occupation.

The policeman who was drowned in the Seine by an enraged crowd, on Sunday, proved to have been an employe under the Napoleonic Perfect PIETRI, and to have been murdered in consequence of his acts in that capacity.

The Parisians believe that the Germans enter the city with the intention to provoke a conflict, which will give color to more exactions.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The Emperor WILLIAM will merely pass through Paris and his new possessions en route to Berlin.

CELEBRATING VICTORY.

Triumphal Entry of the Germans into Berlin—All the German Armies to be Represented.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—The Prussian Cross Gazette states that orders have been given the municipal authorities of Berlin to prepare quarters for the Saxon, Baden, Bavarian and Wurtemberg troops, who will pass through Berlin with the other returning troops. The orders say that it is the wish of the Emperor that all parts of Germany should be represented on the occasion of his entry into the capital.

MISCELLANEOUS WAR NEWS.

The Prolongation of the Armistice—A German Attack on Havre Before the News Was Known.

BORDEAUX, Feb. 28.—The armistice is prolonged to the 12th of March.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Adispatch from Havre says the Germans, unaware of the prolongation of the armistice, attacked that city, today. Their operations were checked by the appearance of a flag of truce from the city with the news, and hostilities at once ceased.

It is said that Gen. AURELLES DE PALADINES has been named commander of the National Guard of the Seine.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Agrarian Murders in Ireland—The Spanish Difficulty with Egypt.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Dispatches from various parts of Ireland, received today, report that several acts of agrarianism have occurred, in which a few persons were killed.

Mediation has been offered and accepted in the Spanish-Egyptian difficulty, and a peaceable solution is anticipated.

Proceedings in the British Parliament—Marriage With a Deceased Wife's Sister—Taxation and Capital.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The House of Lords today voted an address to the Queen, praying Her Majesty to veto the bill passed by an Australian Parliament, legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister.

In the House of Commons Mr. LOPES introduced a bill to remove gross irregularities in taxation, and prevent local capital from being driven abroad for investment.

Barometer corrected for temperature and elevation.

Synopsis of Weather Reports for the Past Twenty-Four Hours.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The storm for the past few days has entirely left the East Atlantic Coast. The borometric depression reported last night in the northwest has moved with great rapidity eastward and southward, and is now over Upper Canada. It has produced a heavy fall in the barometer, and high winds on the lakes and in the Mississippi Valley.

The pressure is now recovering in the West and South-west. Clear weather and fresh winds have prevailed on the Gulf and Atlantic coast.

PROBABILITIES.

Fair weather and fresh winds are probable for Wednesday, on the Gulf and South Atlantic. Brisk winds will probably pass over the Lakes and East Atlantic with fair weather on the upper Lakes.

Observations on Mount Washington.

SUMMIT OF MOUNT WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Observations taken at 7 P. M.: Barometer, 23.54, being a change of plus .53; thermometer, 2°, being a change of minus 7°; relative humidity, .44; wind, north-west; velocity of wind, 43 miles per hour. The velocity of the wind reached the rate of ninety-four miles per hour at 11 o'clock last night, and abated toward the morning. Never before have the frost features been so beautiful as those formed during last night. The clouds passed off the mountain at 10 A. M., and it has been clear since. The wind was blowing fiercely all day.

Furious Rain-Storm in the West—The Mississippi Rising.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 28.—A very strong south-west wind prevails here to-night, and a furious rain-storm is raging in Minnesota. All communication north of Lacrosse is stopped for the night. The Mississippi River is reported to be rising fast.

METHODIST BOOK CONCERN.

The Methodist Book Concern Investigating Committee has adjourned until March 29, without having done anything. They have been six days in session. The first morning on which they assembled they have been examining recommendations of the eight applicants for the place of experts in the hope of selecting one, two or three to whom they could unanimously intrust the examination of the affairs of the concern for the last twelve years. But in vain were all these siftings and debatings; nothing could be done unanimously. The process required for the appointment of experts was first his nomination by the Committee without one dissenting voice, then his approval by Judges FANCHER and REYNOLDS. Of the eight applicants only one man was so fortunate as to receive this nomination on the fourth day of the session. Then he was rejected by the Judges, and this week the members commenced their work without the slightest prospect of a solution of the problem before them. Monday was spent in useless debate, and on Tuesday, at noon, the Committee was compelled to adjourn without having accomplished anything. The reasons for this abrupt termination to their labors are that each of the members have duties to attend to in their own Conferences just now, and other calls from their homes which are imperative. The causes of their failure to appoint experts may be very plainly stated in a few words—individual prejudices against the nominees, and outside influences. The former might have been overcome, as was seen in the case of the solitary nominee, who was not approved by the Judges; but the latter could not. There was a person whose power to impede the frank, straightforward action of the Committee, by discussing the various points of the questions at issue with some of the members, his friends, was great indeed. He has an office, in which he took every trouble to agitate the question whenever any of these members called upon him,

GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

CUBA.

The Tobacco Monopoly—Petition to Spain for Its Repeal.

HAVANA, Feb. 28.—The cigar manufacturers held a meeting today, and adopted a petition for the repeal of the Tobacco Monopoly law of Spain, which was passed in January last. This law affects the tobacco interests unfavorably in Cuba.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Cylinder-Head of the Rob Roy Blown Out Near St. Louis—One Man Killed—Three Cars Burned on the Pan-Handle Railroad—One Man Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 28.—About 5 o'clock this evening, as the steamer Rob Roy, hence to Keokuk, was passing Fort Washington-avenue, the steam blew out her drum-head, killing a colored man named WEST ROBINSON, and knocking overboard FRANK NASH, a camel-keeper, who was rescued. Two camels belonging to VAN AMBURG'S menagerie, on board the steamer at the time, were also blown overboard. The boat was immediately landed, and during the rush for the shore WM. MOFFATT, also connected with the menagerie, fell overboard with an infant in his arms, but both were rescued by MIKE GILLON, who plunged into the river and brought them both ashore. There was considerable excitement among the passengers. The damages will be repaired and the boat will resume her trip in the morning.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Feb. 28.—The fast-line train, on the Pan-Handle Railroad, going West, ran off the track near Mansfield, Penn., this morning, overturning one car, which, with two sleeping-cars, took fire and burned. But one passenger, JAMES CASSIDY, was injured, and he had his face slightly cut. GEORGE LOWE, a brakeman, was injured, but not seriously. The passengers lost but little property in the burning cars.

NEW-JERSEY.

Proceedings of the Legislature—Defeat of the Anti-Erie Bill—Veto of the Morris Canal Company Lease Bill—The Proposed State Board of Railroad Commissioners.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 28.—In the Senate, the Anti-Erie bill to repeal an act passed by the last Legislature, by which the Erie Railway Company was enabled to charge freights higher than they otherwise could, was lost. The Governor has vetoed the bill to permit the Morris Canal Company to lease their properties and franchises, on account of unfair preferences in the bill in favor of preferred stockholders over common stockholders. In the House, the Newark Park bill was lost. A bill was introduced to repeal the Driggs Drainage bill for the Newark and Elizabeth meadows. Both Houses will go into joint meeting, to-morrow afternoon, for the election of Judges of Common Pleas and Commissioners of Deeds. The bill for a State Board of Railroad Commissioners is backed up by petitions, with over 10,000 names attached.

Mr. SANXAY has offered to the House a joint resolution in favor of the annexation of Staten Island to New-Jersey. He declared that Staten Island was largely in favor of such annexation.

ARKANSAS.

The Impeachers Overreached by the Senate—Curious Proceedings—Gov. Clayton Preparing to Go to Washington.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 27.—The Avalanche, Little Rock, special to-night says: A discussion took place on the motion made by Gov. CLAYTON, instructing the impeachment managers to appear at the bar of the Senate again and announce the impeachment of the Governor and Chief-Justice, the motion heretofore given being illegal because no quorum was present when presented. The managers stated that they had given the notice. Whether there was a quorum or not was not their business. The motion was finally carried, most of the Democrats voting for it on the ground that the notice was illegal. There is a clause in the code which says this Senate may dismiss articles if not presented within five days after their passage in the House. There are also sundry rules which the absent Senators prepared in the swamps and passed on Saturday over the heads of a minority. The operation of these rules and the previous question render it impossible for the managers to prosecute the impeachment. One of the rules allows only one attorney on each side to make an argument, in thirty minutes. Another gives the majority power to rule out anything they desire by a majority vote. The managers refuse to obey the instructions of the House to notify the Senate again, and it is understood that they will, to-morrow, ask to be relieved, on the ground that it is impossible to get justice. It is said Governor CLAYTON is packing his carpet-bag, preparatory to leaving for Washington. This evening he sent a message to both the Houses announcing that he had signed the bill doing away with the fifty per cent. penalty for the non-payment of taxes. Objections were made in both Houses on its reception.

Legislative Control of Railroads—Opinion of the Attorney-General of Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Feb. 28.—Gov. GEARY today sent a message to the Legislature, covering the opinion of the Attorney-General of the State, in answer to a resolution of the Legislature, in regard to the raising of tolls by coal railroads. The Attorney-General says:

I am of opinion as to all companies incorporated since the adoption of the Constitution of 1838, that a remedy for any injury to the public is entirely in the hands of the Legislature. The twenty-sixth section of article I of the Constitution says:

The Legislature shall have power to alter, revoke or annul any charter of incorporation hereafter conferred by or under any special or general law, whenever, in their opinion, it may be injurious to the citizens of the Commonwealth; in such manner, however, that no injustice shall be done to the corporators.

The gist of the opinion is that the Legislature has control of the matter, and that when two or more companies combine to raise the tolls, their officers can be indicted for conspiracy.

The Billiard Tournament at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 28.—At the billiard tournament, today, three games were played. GEORGE F. STONE, of Hartford, allowing odds of 200 to MATT HEWINS, of Hartford, won by a score of 1,001 to 556. Winner's average, 11¾; best runs, 96, 84, 61.

F. B. DENNISON, of Springfield, gave odds of 160 to GEORGE F. STONE. The game was won by the latter—1,000 to 489. Winner's average, 10½; best runs, 171, 66, 63.

C. E. WILSON, of Providence, beat F. B. DENNISON, of Springfield, by a run of 500.

A Hotel in Iowa Burned—Two Lives Believed to be Lost.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 28.—A special dispatch from Ackley, Iowa, says the new Bowler House of that place was burned last night. EDWARD WILLIAMS, an omnibus-driver, and a young man named JOHNSON, are missing, and it is thought that they perished in the flames. Loss, $40,000; insured, $17,000. The house was new and built to replace one burned about one year since.

Miscellaneous Telegrams.

NORWICH, Conn., Feb. 28.—The carriage-shop of ROBINSON & MCCALL, at the Falls, and the adjoining dwelling-house were burned this morning. The total loss is $6,000.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 28.—The satinet mill at Monson, Mass., owned by C. W. HOLMES & SON, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $25,000; insurance, $18,000.

Daring Larcenies in the City.

As Mr. SOLOMON SLOCUM, of Marietta, Ohio, was coming down town on a Fourth-avenue car, from the 11 P. M. New-Haven train, a dexterous pickpocket succeeded in unbuttoning his coat and stealing his watch, valued at $120. The despoiled owner had kept his hand closed upon his pocket-book while the thieves were taking his time-piece. Mr. SLOCUM notified the Headquarter detectives, who advised him to offer a reward that would tempt the thieves to restore the property.

Yesterday, while Mrs. RUTHERFORD STUYVESANT, of No. 246 East Fifteenth-street, was visiting a friend in East Forty-fourth street, a sneak thief entered her carriage, at the door, and succeeded in carrying off a camel hair shawl, valued at $500, without attracting the attention of the coachman.

SMALL-POX.

More Cases Reported—How the Patients are Cared For.

There seems to have been no exaggeration of the alarming facts that have been mentioned in regard to the recent spread of pestilence in this City and adjoining places. In this City there are no new cases reported, and no immediate apprehension need be felt. In Hoboken several new cases have come to light. Four deaths have occurred since Sunday. The disease is greatly aggravated by the filthy, swampy nature of "the Meadows," westward of the city. This region is principally inhabited by the poorer classes, who are in constant danger from the malarious vapors.

The Flatbush Hospital has the largest number of cases. It is about four miles from the Fulton Ferry, just beyond the Brooklyn city line. There are accommodations for 120 patients. For ventilation, space, sun-light, water, and other facilities, it is well favored. There are various wards in the building, which are allotted to various kinds of infectious and contagious diseases. That portion given to the small-pox patients just now, is by far the most crowded. Yesterday five new cases of the latter disease were admitted. They were of a different and a much more malignant type than those previously received. There are now sixty-four cases, all of which are doing well, although fatal results may at any time ensue. The physicians aver that these patients have progressed much more favorably than those treated in private houses—probably because of the superior training of the nurses.

Private physicians frequently conceal the existence of their cases from the public for the sake of the family, who revolt at the idea of hospital associations. Dr. COCHRANE promptly visits every case that is reported, and if the vicinity is densely populated and the type of the disease malignant, he removes it to the hospital or quarantine. A carriage and an ambulance are provided for the choice of patients. The origin of this pestilence is traced to the extreme eastern portion of Williamsburg, known as Dutchtown, where it first made its appearance.

The clothing, bedding, &c., of the patients is burned and not disinfected. Arrangements have been made to reimburse the poor for such losses. There are a large number of scarlet fever cases in the other wards of the building, most of which are of an ordinary type and are doing well.

LECTURES.

The Coming Man—Lecture by Rev. Dr. Osgood.

Rev. Dr. OSGOOD delivered the first of a course of lectures in aid of the free Church of St. Matthias, in the hall of Rutgers College, last evening, selecting for his subject "The Coming Man." He said this theme had been brought to his notice by being introduced, a few years since, to a sea Captain 102 years old, who had seen many of the distinguished men of the last century, and whose faculties were in such perfect condition that he was able to form accurate opinions of men of the present day. What great changes he must have witnessed; but how much greater would the change be were we able to look one hundred years ahead; or, to express it briefly, what would be the thoughts, feelings, and desires of an audience in this City, Feb. 28, A. D. 1971? Some children are now in their cradles who will witness these changes; and what will they be? We may be sure that the new type will be more intellectual. Tendencies are everything, and the tendency of our age is undoubtedly scientific or rational; even the Churches, from the Roman Catholic to the Puritan, are going this way, and the coming man will be a great extent an improvement upon them. Yet, while rational, he will not lack faith and enthusiasm and thereby become rationalistic; but he will learn from facts to look beyond facts, and from knowing more of the truth than we know to worship, with greater zeal, the Father of all truth. In all affairs of every-day life the difference will be very marked; skillful physicians predict that amputation will have passed out of date, and others that the limit of human life will be increased to 150 or 200 years, by a corresponding increase in knowledge of the body and its ailments, certain to be reached by that time. In this respect, whether the coming man will have good cooks is a matter of greater importance than whether he will or will not use wine and tobacco. Freedom in its true sense, will be better recognized then than now, that is, the freedom which each man allows himself for the best and noblest of purposes, guided by a disciplined mind, perfect law being perfect emancipation. In social life the causes are even now at work which are to effect an assimilation of all the race, each person retaining, at the same time, his individuality—mutuality it may be called; by its power the tormenting questions of capital and labor, are to be settled; the social evil abolished; marriage placed on a purer and more attractive basis, and business conducted less for private aggrandizement. It has been said that there is such a thing as progressive creation, and that a century hence there will be a better and a more elevated race, using those who may then live as we now are, for domestic animals, as we use the horse and cow. This, I need hardly say, is French; that it should be so is incredible, and we may safely believe that the coming man will be even as we are, having the same hopes, the same heaven, the same God.

Alexandra Chapel, King-street, was crowded last evening by a respectable audience, who listened with much attention to a lecture on temperance by JOHN HALL, D. D. No harsh or unfeeling language, he said, should be used toward those afflicted with intemperance, as many who are unfortunately afflicted with that disease possess kind hearts, and have often been led into it by attractive social qualities. The liquor traffic was a bad one, but he would not undertake to speak evil of any one engaged in it. A good many, he was aware, would be glad to give it up if they saw their way out of it. The lecturer pointed out the bad effects produced on man by intemperance, and related many instances of the evils which had wrought his respectable and educated friends of his in Ireland. He contrasted the death of the drunkard with that of a friend of his who, while laboring under brain fever, took away his own life, and asked them if they could for a moment hesitate to choose between the two forms of death. The drunkard was responsible for his death, but in the other case the disease was caused by God, and the man was not accountable for his actions. The mind of man should control the body, and appropriate truths should be brought to bear upon him by appealing to his reason and to his conscience, that is if he has a clear mind, a mind not already clouded by the influence of stimulants. The doctor spoke of the evils of intemperance in the family circle and of the difficulty of keeping the marriage vows when either the husband or the wife is a drunkard. He described three classes of drunkards—the good-natured, the quarrelsome and the religious drunkard, for, strange to say there are men who do not talk of religion until they are drunk, when they become quite theological. He asked, how can a woman love, respect, or even be faithful to a man who has shown himself a brute? or how can children have the right feeling for the parents who are habitual drunkards? There cannot be home happiness where drunkenness has place and power, and drink in any shape should not be allowed to enter the happy home. He next pointed out the heavy burdens which the community have to bear and which are produced by intemperance. If he could receive the amount spent for drink in New-York he would undertake to pay all the doctors, all the Judges, support all the places of worship, double the salaries of all the ministers, support the prisoners, asylums and other public institutions, and if he was allowed to keep the balance he'd be the richest man in New-York. There is a common impression that drunkenness is the sin of the poor. This is a mistake, as in proportion to their numbers there is a greater amount of drunkenness among the rich than among the poor. The rich man can hide it, but the poor cannot. Abstinence, complete abstinence, was the only cure for this upas tree. He asked them to unite and pledge themselves against the use of drink, and to enter their names on the total abstinence roll. In conclusion, the doctor condemned the practice of giving drink to visitors on New-Year's Day, and appealed to the ladies to abolish that injurious system in future.

Calico Hop of the Lincoln Union.

The members of the Lincoln Union, a large and flourishing organization belonging to the Ninth Ward, gave a calico hop at Apollo Hall last evening. There was a very fine company present, and the entertainment proved to be of a highly enjoyable character. The special feature was the extensive number of calico dresses and dress coats which were displayed on the occasion, and which made quite an attractive spectacle.

ALBANY.

The Governor at Length Yields to Tweed and Signs the Water Bill.

Two Elaborate Vetoes Sent in to Offset This Action.

Dissatisfaction of the Rural Democracy With the Governor's Course.

The Income Tax Repeal Question—The Ring Job for Rapid Transit in New-York—Possibility of Its Success—Gould and the Erie Directors' Bill—He Puts His Faith in Tweed.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1871.

Whenever an opportunity offers, which is very seldom, to give Gov. HOFFMEN credit for a good act, or for omitting to do a bad one, he is sure to spoil it all before the ink is dry that records the well-meant praise. Thus, at the very moment your correspondent telegraphed the statement last evening that TWEED'S water job and the Broadway widening swindle had not yet received the Executive sanction, and that there was a bare possibility of their being vetoed, the Governor was engaged in putting his signature to them. The fact was duly announced in the Argus this morning, and took many people by surprise. The delay in the Governor's action had induced the belief on the part of many, including some of the Governor's best friends, that he would not give his approval to measures so objectionable in themselves, and whose passage through the Legislature was marked by such notorious and glaring features of bribery and corruption. But the presence of TWEED on the ground, yesterday, brought matters to an issue; the Governor's scruples, if he had any, were soon knocked out of his head, and he was forced to affix his signature to the bills before the "Boss" retired for the night. Immediately following this act of subserviency to the Tammany "Ring," it was natural, of course, to look for some ostentatious display of the veto power. Accordingly, no one, familiar with the tricks of his Excellency, was disappointed when his Private Secretary marched into the Assembly Chamber this morning bearing on his shoulders two ponderous vetoes—one of a bill authorizing the Board of Supervisors of Orleans County to build a lock-up at Medena, and the other of a bill to supply the village of Saratoga with pure and wholesome water. The veto of this last bill has given rise to a good deal of comment, and to some very pointed criticisms on the Governor's action which it might have been beneficial for him to listen to. The bill was introduced by Mr. HILL, a Democrat from that district, and was urged by most of the leading men of Saratoga. The same object in view for that village that TWEED'S Water bill professes to have for New-York; it has none of the objectionable features of TWEED'S bill, and, above all, it was not passed through the Legislature by bribery. Yet this is vetoed with a grand Gubernatorial flourish, while TWEED'S job receives Mr. HOFFMAN'S signature and becomes a law. It will not require many more acts like this, judging from the remarks made by Democrats in the Assembly today, to convince the rural Democracy of what many of them already feel to their shame—that the great Democratic Party of the Empire State has come to be a mere vassal of the New-York "Ring," and that its country members have no rights which TWEED, SWEENY, HOFFMAN & Co. are bound to respect.

INSTRUCTING CONGRESS.

The Senate occupied the entire morning session in discussing a resolution, offered by CREAMER, instructing our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use their influence to repeal the income tax. All were in favor of the resolution, but it was apparent that the Democratic side of the Senate desired to make a little party capital out of it; and this gave rise to a lengthy discussion, which ranged over the entire political field, from BUCHANAN'S Administration to the present time. A substitute was offered, conceding the original necessity of the income tax, but this was voted down by the Democrats. Finally, the original resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote.

STEAM TRANSIT IN NEW-YORK.

About twenty bills for steam railroads in the City of New-York, have been introduced this session, and are now in the hands of committees. They comprise every variety of railroad transit, including underground, tunnel, arcade, elevated, &c., &c.; but the grand scheme introduced by GENET, last evening, caps the climax of absurdity, and for that reason will stand the best chance of success. It proposes that the road shall be built by the City under the superintendence of the Ring, with a few millionaires thrown in as ornamental advisers, that it shall cost not exceeding ten million dollars, and that the City authorities shall have the whole charge of the road, when built, with power to regulate the fares, &c., &c., and pay over the profits. (!) after deducting the expenses, to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. As will be seen, it would furnish one of the fattest jobs the Ring has had for a long time, besides providing a permanent field for official thievery and corruption. This is why the scheme will meet with favor in the Legislature. The only reason why New-York has not had rapid transit from the Battery to Harlem, long before this, is because no scheme has hitherto been concocted by which the road could be built by the Ring, and with the City's money. This bill of GENET'S meets the emergency, and therefore its passage may be looked for with confidence.

A HEARING ON THE ERIE BILL.

The Railroad Committee have positively promised to give a hearing on GOODRICH'S bill to repeal the Erie Directors' act to-morrow morning. Mr. SOUTHMAYD, of the firm of EVARTS, CHOATE & SOUTHMAYD, will address the Committee. It is said that GOULD has concluded to make no opposition to the passage of the bill in the Assembly, but will rely on his fellow-director TWEED to kill it in the Senate. S.

Evening Session of the Assembly—Attempt to Make Democratic Capital—Arbitrary Ruling of the Speaker Pro Tem., and the Consequence.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The Assembly held an evening session, and considered a number of unimportant bills in Committee of the Whole. There was an interesting episode in the proceedings, arising out of an attempt on the part of the Democrats to make a little capital for FERNANDO WOOD and other Democratic members of Congress. Speaker HITCHMAN read a dispatch from Washington, announcing that the Ex-Mayor's resolution to repeal the duty on coal had passed the House of Representatives, and this was deemed of sufficient importance to call for a vote of thanks to the aforesaid FERNANDO, which HITCHMAN had embodied in the form of a resolution. ALVORD objected, and by the standing rules of the Assembly the resolution was obliged to lie over. But FREAR, who had been called to the Chair by the Speaker, decided that they were in order, and this absurd and arbitrary ruling drew forth a scathing rebuke from ALVORD about the treatment which the minority had received from the Democratic majority in this Legislature. He warned them that if they continued thus to ride rough-shod over the minority, and to violate the long-standing rules of the House, the time might come when they would be compelled to swallow a few doses of their own medicine. TOM FIELDS finally came to the rescue of the over-zealous Chairman, and extricated him from his difficulty, and the resolution was laid over under the rule. The Democracy in both Houses of the Legislature appear to have suddenly turned their whole attention to Congress, doubtless with the idea that they can thus divert the minds of the people from their own rascality. The feeble attempts made today to gain capital for their party, indicate the poverty of their resources in this line, together with the weakness and utter lack of ability of the men who now assume to lead the Democracy in this State.

REGULAR RECORD.

SENATE....ALBANY, Tuesday, Feb. 28.

The following bills were introduced:

Authorizing the construction of a street railroad in the City of Auburn.

By Mr. CAULDWELL—Regulating the crossing of highways by the Spuyten Duyvil Creek and Port Morris Railroad Company.

By Mr. LEWIS—To enlarge and improve the Lancaster rural cemetery, in Erie County.

By Mr. TWEED—Repealing the act for improving certain streets in New York, passed in 1870, so far as the same relates to Madison-avenue.

By Mr. LEWIS—Repealing the act to provide for the appraisal of canal claims against the State.

By Mr. PIERCE—Providing that the capital stock of the Commonwealth Insurance Company may be increased $500,000, and that the stockholders shall notify the directors of their desire to sell stock, and they shall direct the sale of the same within ten days.

By Mr. GENET—Defining the duties and liabilities of gold and stock brokers, providing that they shall be deemed auctioneers, and subject to their liabilities. They shall each pay a license to the State of $250, and give bonds in the sum of $5,000, and make returns of all sales, which shall be subject to a State tax of 50 cents on each $10,000 of sales; also, providing for the election of officers of the Holy Trinity Church of Harlem, in New-York City.

By Mr. HARRINGTON—Making an appropriation to pay the expenses of collectors of tolls, and the superintendence of ordinary repairs, and maintenance of canals for the fiscal year commencing Oct. 1, 1870, to supply deficiencies in former appropriations, and to confirm the action of the Commissioner of the Canal Fund, in providing funds for the above purposes.

By Mr. KENNEDY—Incorporating the University Railway Company of Syracuse.

BILLS REPORTED.

The following bills were reported:

Providing for regulating the grades, curbing, guttering, and flagging of certain streets in the City of New-York; incorporating the Harlem Hospital of the City of New-York; to facilitate the construction of the Syracuse and Chenango Railroad Company; authorizing the appointment of additional clerks in the District Courts of New-York.

THE BINGHAMTON WATER BILL.

The bill amending the Binghamton Water Supply act was passed.

TAX RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. LORD offered the following:

Whereas, The aggregate amount of national taxation imposed upon the people is unprecedented, and has become excessively burdensome upon the labor of the country, while all the evils of heavy taxation are aggravated by unequal laws and unjust exemptions—with a view of remedying some of those evils, it is hereby

Resolved, (If the Assembly concur,) That the Senators in Congress from this State be, and they are hereby instructed, and the Representatives in Congress from this State requested, to use their influence and efforts in procuring the passage of all necessary laws to impose and enforce taxation upon all Government bonds and securities owned by individuals, associations or corporations to such an extent and amendment as will equal as nearly as may be the aggregated amount of national and State taxation imposed upon other property.

Second—To demand and use their influence to procure at once the abolition of all tariff duties upon coal, and thus relieve the laboring and poorer classes from an extortionate and oppressive imposition upon one of the necessaries of life.

Third—To oppose all donations of public land to corporations or individuals for any purposes or objects whatever, and to adopt measures which will restore to the Government all lands heretofore granted to corporations, or the value thereof, in all cases where the terms of the grant have not been strictly complied with. Tabled under the rule.

Mr. CREAMER offered a joint resolution requesting the Representatives in Congress to vote for the repeal of the income tax. A long debate took place.

Mr. LEWIS moved the following as a substitute:

Whereas, The income tax was entirely necessary when adopted, and is now unnecessary, therefore our Representatives in Congress are requested to vote for its repeal.

This was lost by the following vote:

YEAS—Messrs. Bowen, Elwood, Harpending, Kennedy, Lewis, Minier, Parker, Scott, Thayer, Winslow, Woodin—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Banks, Cauldwell, Creamer, Frost, Genet, Graham, Hardenburg, Lord, Morgan, Norton, Pierce, Sanford, Tweed—13.

Mr. CREAMER'S resolution was adopted.

Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

The bill amending the charter of the Oriental Savings Bank, of New-York, returned by the Governor, was amended by inserting the words "State of New-York" and repassed.

GENERAL ORDERS.

The following bills were disposed of as noted:

To protect buoys moored in the Niagara River; ordered to third reading. Amending the act fixing the fees of Justices of Peace, Constables, Jurors, &c.; ordered to a third reading. Authorizing the Syracuse and Northern Railroad Company to construct a swing-bridge over the Oswego Canal in the First Ward of Syracuse; third reading. Authorizing the Governor and Senate to appoint an Inspector of Gas Meters, who shall appoint three deputies to reside in New-York, Brooklyn and Albany; third reading. Amending the charter of the Loaners' Bank, of New-York; third reading.

YONKERS POLICE.

A bill was introduced by Mr. SCRIBNER to organize and establish a Police force for Yonkers.

VETOED BILLS REJECTED.

The Governor returned the bill authorizing the Supervisors of Orleans County to build a lock-up at Medina, without his approval, as the tax would be unjust. The bill was rejected. Also, the bill to incorporate the Granite, Lake County, Saratoga, Company. The Governor's objection to this is that the title is vague and citizens are opposed to it. The bill was rejected.

The House took a recess till 7½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

FERNANDO WOOD'S COAL RESOLUTION.

A dispatch received by the Governor from FERNANDO WOOD, announcing the passage by the House of Representatives of his resolution removing the duties on coal, was read to the House.

Mr. HITCHMAN offered a joint resolution thanking Mr. WOOD, and those acting with him, in carrying this repeal.

Mr. ALVORD objected to a consideration of the resolution at this time, as he wished to debate it.

Mr. FIELDS moved to lay all orders of business on the table, so as to take up the resolution, which was lost by 60 to 46—not two-thirds.

Mr. FIELDS moved to strike out the words "if the Senate conc

THE UNITED ITALY.

Transfer of the Capital to Rome—Providing for the Pope—Anxious Looks Toward France—Recognition of American Sympathy—The Broken Home of Mario and Grisi.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FLORENCE, Tuesday, Feb. 7, 1871.

The Chamber promptly confirmed the amendments made by the Senate to the bill for the transfer of the capital, and that measure is now the law of the land. Signor GADDA, the Minister of Public Works, has left for Rome to prepare for the advent of the Government. Gen. LA MARMORA has come back to Florence, and the hereditary Prince is, for the time, installed as a sort of military Viceroy of the Eternal City. The clerical party is to be made familiar by degrees with the royal rule, and as for the Romans themselves, there is among them an increasing feeling of content, now that the uncertainty is removed caused by the hesitation of the Government to act after Rome was occupied by the military forces. Certain placemen of the Crown have, with their desks and papers, already been summoned to the new political centre, and others are preparing to follow. A special commission is to be created to have the general direction of the no trifling work of reseating the Government, and we have the promise that the present week shall not pass without a beginning being made.

GUARANTEES FOR THE POPE.

The first article of the scheme of law fixing the guarantees for the Pope has been voted by the Deputies, and the second is now under consideration. The sum named in the bill as the annual allowance to the Pontiff is somewhat more than three millions of francs. I have not noticed that any proposal has been made to reduce this amount, for the question is much less one of money than of making sure that there shall be no violation of the principle of liberty, either as concerns the Pontiff or the State. One of the first objects of the law is to secure the inviolability of the Pope in his person, and to place him in a position of dignity and honor not inferior to that of the Sovereign. The Constitution makes the King an almost irresponsible agent, and his person inviolable; alike exempt from criticism and ridicule. The purpose is to give to the Pontiff the same position of immunity; but in such a way as not to restrict the liberty of the Press, or expose it to the annoyance of frequent prosecutions. It is to this part of the project of law that the Deputies are giving careful attention. As the case is at present, without any legal enactment, the Pope is more broadly caricatured than any other leading personage, either in or out of the Kingdom of Italy; unless it be the fallen ISABELLA, or the Ex-Emperor NAPOLEON. All the ridiculous prints that have appeared here in the past half-dozen years would form a curious collection. Our devoted Irish friends, brought up at a distance from this central seat of Catholic influence, would be surprised to see to what lengths these more independent sons of the Church go.

For the rest, it is now clear that this last of the three leading measures concerning Rome, will, before long, with modifications, become law. After that the Government and country will have to patiently wait, we do not know how long, to see if the Papal party will accept the reasonable terms of reconciliation offered to it. There, indeed, is the rub.

LOOKING TOWARD FRANCE.

The condition of France, and the prospect of peace or continued war, preoccupies attention here as much or more than at any time before. For Italy the most interesting thing to know is what kind of government is to succeed in that country, the present provisional direction of affairs, and what kind of relations are in the future to exist between Italy and France. There are those here, sympathizing with the Papal Party in its hopes of the restoration of the temporal power, who insist that after all her misfortunes, when she finds herself once more on her feet, France will again interfere in Italian affairs. These hold with obstinacy that to have the support of the clerical faction, the Government of France, whatever it may be, must avenge the occupation of Rome. To us there appears no probability that France will ever attempt to repeat so fatal an error; but to the passionate adherents of the ancient system, the certainty of such action is foolishly believed in. If France learns a single lesson of wisdom from present calamities, it seems as if it must be that of letting other nations manage their own affairs. We have been witnesses of the prudence and good sense displayed in her policy by Austria since the disasters which followed two unsuccessful wars;—cutting herself loose from Rome, and the baleful system of the Middle Ages. It is much more likely that France, when her fortunes are once more established, will follow rather than oppose the example of Italy. Escaped from a rule founded upon a violated oath, and for nearly twenty years maintained by falsehood, the people of France may find here a free Government, with a Sovereign at its head who has acted with honesty and been faithful to his word when others have been false, and given to monarchical Europe a fair model for imitation.

THE AMERICAN DEMONSTRATION OF SYMPATHY.

The great demonstration in New-York in favor of Italian unity continues to find an echo here. The greater part of the newspapers have published the account, and little doubt is now left on which side the real sympathies of the people of the United States are enlisted. In spite of adverse declarations, many times repeated, well-informed persons have known what the tone of America would be when the time came to speak.

MARIO'S VILLA.

Many who have visited Florence have made one of their pleasantest excursions in the charming suburbs, to the baronial villa Salviati, of late years the property and sometimes residence, of GRISI and MARIO. The house was built four or five hundred years back, and although considerable changes have been made in modern times, it still preserves the air of the feudal period. The death of GRISI a year or two ago, and MARIO pursuing his artistic career in foreign cities, and the children receiving an education more American or English than Italian, has broken up this home in which these two favorites of the lyric muse, in the quiet dignity of a retirement of opulent elegance, had hoped to end their days. Many visitors, in the past two weeks, have driven or walked out to the villa, to make an inspection of the great number of objects of fine and decorative art, now offered for sale. The chateau, also, is to pass into other hands. Some go to gratify curiosity, and others to purchase articles of taste or utility, to preserve as memorials of those who, in their time, have contributed so much to the enjoyment of those who find their most delicious solace in the musical art.

ITALIAN WEATHER.

The dreariest Winter known in a long Italian experience is drawing on toward its close, to the relief of foreign visitors and the tired-out native population. The Italians love the sun, so that they may bask in it in Winter, on the sheltered side of every wall that lifts itself toward the south. But they really have less of the sun during the whole year than we do in our climate. Americans who come here are surprised to find themselves for many days under a cloud, while on the other side of the ocean the sun is making the frosty atmosphere sparkle with a crystaline splendor.

DETERIORATION OF MANNERS.

As much as we applaud Italy, and as warm as are our optimist hopes, a love of truth forces the confession that an evident deterioration of manners is going on. A few days' observation here in Florence, by one who has some knowledge of the language, is sufficient proof of this; and sad is the fact that the grossest evidence is furnished by boys who have hardly yet got beyond the years of adolescence. The most profane and obscene language assails your ears, and is written upon the walls of the town. Public decorum is disturbed by screams and yells fit for savage life, and reverence for persons, monuments, and institutions seems to be growing less and less. Here, also, numbers are found who are aspiring after that delectable, but somewhat paradoxical, state of society, in which everybody is as good as his neighbor and a great deal better. It cannot be said that democracy, which is running rampant over the world, is improving the minor morals of the population. There is more slang in journalism than there was, and politicians have less respect for each other. The democracy of the early epoch of our Republic, which, in WASHINGTON and his associates, gave the world such fine examples of manners, hardly finds imitators as further "progress" is made. The vulgarity of undisciplined individual assertion becomes every day more gross.

NON-EXECUTION OF LAWS.

But the most serious question of the moment here is not that of a deterioration of manners, but the laxness on the part of the authorities in the execution of laws for the protection of life and property. Years ago it was thought that the south of Italy was the part in which was found the greatest numbers of those needing always the strong hand of power to keep them from violating the rules and abusing the privileges of free society. But those who are now giving most anxiety to orderly citizens, and awakening the solicitude of the Government, are the populations of the Romagnia, a portion of the territory of the former Pontifical States. For some time acts of violence have been increasing, and the worst feature of this state of things is that it is becoming more and more difficult to obtain the arrest or conviction of the offenders in cases of assassination or highway robbery, or kidnapping to obtain a sum of money for ransom—a sort of crime peculiar to communities of the Latin race. There is no subject of local interest which at the moment so much engages the discussions of the newspapers. The Ministerial organ is the first to admit the magnitude of the evil, and to demand with a loud voice the adoption of thorough and energetic measures on the part of the authority. The President of the Cabinet has made it the subject of a discourse in Parliament, and a project has been devised which will soon be brought under discussion in that body. The legislation is to have special reference to the District of Ravenna, which city, with the neighboring one of Faenza, has given the most examples of criminal insubordination, and where rapid progress is making toward the breaking up of society. In that district, with a limited population, there were last year thirty-five cases of assassination and forty-three of man-killing, an increase of twelve cases of the former and ten of the latter over the number reported the previous year. Of highway robbery, the number of cases rose from 142 in 1869 to 327 in 1870. Of theft, 1,049 cases, or 247 more than in the previous year. But the worst fact of all is to be added. Of 2,228 prosecutions brought before the Tribunal last year, 1,446 fell to the ground, because witnesses could not be found to testify to the facts. Fear of vengeance shut the mouths of those with a knowledge of the truth.

REMEDIES.

The first object of the authority must be to dispel the prevailing terror and lift the morale of the public mind, so that justice may once more have free course. The liberty, of which the country enjoys so much, cannot be maintained without a Government of a robustness free from all sentimentalism and timid hesitation; ready to punish without cruelty, but with a sure and terrible severity, the enemies of society; and the principle is a sound one, whether applied for the protection of good citizens and of order at Ravenna or in the City of New-York. A doubt prevails whether the present Ministry has a courage quite up to the demands of the time; and such a doubt is calculated to destroy half the moral force of any council, whether State or municipal. I state facts and make criticisms with the same frankness, whether the same be on the side of the civil or clerical source of influence. The country is in a state of transition, and the clerical party has been so busy looking after the conservation of political interest, that it has been forgetful to a degree of the exercise of duties in its legitimate sphere. I have not the slightest doubt that when reforms now going on are perfected, and the new system gets into working order, if the ministers of the church sincerely accept it, and labor in their true sphere with becoming zeal, their influence and their power for good will be greater than ever before. The surest foundation upon which any society can be built is that which has for its corner-stone a true system of Christian morality, and this Catholic priests must labor for, thinking less of dogmatic theology and of the acquisition of political power.

THE CARNIVAL.

The carnival in Florence, so far, has been languid almost to sadness, and last Sunday the Corso was attempted in streets filthy with mud, accumulated during weeks of dripping rain. In-doors there has been more animation, and Americans here, in large numbers, with their elegant dancing parties and suppers, have contributed in good proportion to promote gayety; for which the newspapers from day to day give them credit.

ANGELICO.

Further information from Denver throws discredit upon the story sent by telegraph, that one F. C. CROSS, a young man from Massachusetts, attempted to rob an express-car on the Union Pacific Railroad, by gaining admission into it in a box to be sent as freight. He himself has said, since his arrest, that his funds were getting low, and that, finding his fare home would cost him $65, while the box could be sent for $20, he made the box and attempted to get a cheap passage to New-England. The Denver Tribune describes the interior of the box, and speaks of CROSS thus:

In one end of the box is frame-work, netted with stout twine, a fine thing for the head to rest upon. The other end is the commissary. Here are bread, cakes, a can of butter, apples, and many little dainties for a long journey. Here are books and papers, an odd suit and other conforts. The only suspicious thing about it is the armory—a pistol. His manner leaves no doubt that he is partially demented. He says he hopes people will not laugh at him. His freak was merely an effort to get a cheap rate to Boston. "The thing didn't work, and here I am." There are intimations current to-day that a part of this "cunningly-devised plan" was the robbery of the express. Those who know this young man can't believe that he is familiar with the wicked ways of the world. They look upon the whole thing as a kind of strange freak, done, as the young man expresses it, "partly for fun, and partly for economy."

MURDER OF PRIM.

The Assassination and Its Authors—The Republicans Guiltless.

From the London Echo, Feb. 16.

We have received anonymously, and purporting to come from an American sailor just arrived in London from Italy, the following extraordinary account of the plot, the murder, and the murderers of the late Marshal PRIM. Internal evidence will justify an opinion that the document is one of very much importance. We publish it in the precise form in which it reaches our hands, possessing no knowledge as to the character of the source from whence the information is derived.

THE DESIGN.

The King had been elected. High and noble aspirations had been crushed, as well as long-cherished plans frustrated for gratifying private ambition and advancement. Every lawful means had been resorted to to prevent the election, and now that the consummation was so near crime must do the rest. The criminals reasoned that the first step taken must be to murder the man who had most contributed to the failure of their hopes. They considered that the King, upon hearing that PRIM had been killed in the streets of Madrid, would with good reason deem that he, a foreigner, and odious to the nation, must be the next victim, and would not even step on shore from the ship that brought him. And besides, the revolution that was to follow the assassination in Madrid, would spread to the provinces, and the whole country would have risen against the King by the time of his landing.

THE PLAN

was first to murder PRIM in his carriage. Then to take possession of the carriage, and drive to the Plaza de la Cebada, a square in the centre of a district where the lowest and most desperate classes of Madrid live. This square literally swarms with people at all hours of the day and evening. There the dead body was to be delivered to the mob, to be dragged through the streets, according to the custom of Spanish mobs on similar occasions. The rough Republicans would be excited into insurrection, to be joined by a number of soldiers and some officers, a revolutionary junta formed, and the rest of Spain would follow. Several important political men were to have been assassinated by the mob that night when the disturbance was at its height.

THE REALIZATION.

It will be remembered that it was snowing heavily in Madrid all the afternoon and evening of the day of the crime. There had been a lengthy discussion of some important measure in the Cortes, and when PRIM left the Chamber it was quite dark, about 7½ o'clock. On his way out he found a group of Deputies of different parties talking in the corridor, and jestingly said, as he passed, "It seems to me I heard something about guns. That concerns the Minister of War." The Deputies smiled in answer, and the General turned then to a Republican Deputy, and said, "Why do you not make up your mind to go with me to receive the King? It would be a pleasant little trip for you." The Deputies again laughed, and PRIM, passing on, said, "And you, Republicans, no indiscretion, for this time I warn you that it will go hard with you." The Republican Deputy with whom he had spoken, followed him, and said a few words to him in a low tone. PRIM again laughed, and went on. Some Monarchists, in their zeal have accused the Republican Deputy of being complicated in the assassination, and of its having been a part of the plot to detain Gen. PRIM for a few moments in the lobby. But this is completely false. This Republican Deputy knew nothing of the plan. PRIM stopped to speak with the Deputies, instead of being stopped. He could have gone out by any other of the many corridors leading from the Chamber of Sessions, and it was perfectly indifferent to the assassin whether he left the building a few minutes later or earlier. When the General entered his carriage, a man standing near lighted a match, and another a short distance off did the same. A few paces further on, another was lighted, and so on all the way to the corner of the Calle del Turco and the Calle de Alcalá, where the crime was committed. The matches were a signal to show that PRIM had left the Cortes and was in the carriage. It will be remembered that there were two cabs blocking the way at the Calle de Alcalá, one at the corner and the other near the door. One had been taken by the assassins some time before, and by the hour. The others had nothing to do with the affair, and, coming up just as the General's carriage appeared in sight, waited, because it could not pass. When the victim's carriage was near, one of the conspirators deliberately took the horse without the cab, by the bridle and placed the vehicle right across the street. The cabman had been taken to a tavern, near, by some of the conspirators, and, as it was so cold, and snowing so hard, was induced to take wine with them, and there he was in the tavern drinking when the crime was committed. When the General's carriage was stopped the Aide-de-camp MOYA looked out to ascertain the cause of the detention, and the gleaming of the gun-barrels in the uncertain light of the street lamp told him at once what was intended. He turned hastily to the General, and grasping his arm, cried, "My General, they are going to fire on us." Three men on each side slowly approached the carriage, and one of them, low in stature, broad-shouldered and black-bearded, broke the window-glasses with the end of his blunderbuss, and looking in, said to the General, "Prepare thyself, for thou art going to die." PRIM then made a movement as if to throw himself on the floor of the carriage, but it was too late. In that very moment three charges entered the carriage from one side, and immediately after three other charges thundered in from the other side. At the same time the coachman was lashing his horses to force them past the obstructing vehicle, and at the same time applied his whip right and left to the group of assassins around the carriage, and finally the horses, frenzied at the firing, dashed past the cab, throwing the cab-horse to the ground. The assassins, hearing the voice of PRIM, after the firing, as well as those of his Aides-de-Camp, knew that they had failed. PRIM was not dead. Therefore, the next part of the plan, to bring down the coachman and footman, and taking possession of the carriage, to drive with the victim to the Plaza de la Cebada, was impossible. The parties waiting at the square had promised to produce the insurrection the moment the dead body of PRIM should be delivered to them. There arises a complication. It is alleged that certain writers had promised to begin the revolution the moment of the assassination, but that they did not keep their word. They are guilty of perjury and cowardice, and their fellow-conspirators have vowed to take their lives. These writers have disappeared.

THE ASSASSINS.

The actors who took an ostensible part in the deed were numerous. There were, first, those who formed the line from the Cortes to the Calle de Alcalá, who signaled with the lighted matches. Then there were those who drank and junketed with the coachman, and those who fired into the carriage. There were, besides, others stationed in a carriage near, in the Calle de Alcalá, who were to proceed to another square called the Plaza de Santo Domingo, as soon as they heard the firing, and commence the insurrection there too, but these, it seems, lacked courage, and failed to keep their engagement. Others were similarly stationed in the Carrera de San Geronimo, near the Cortes, who were to proceed to the Plaza de la Cebada at the moment of the firing. These went, but as the victim was not present they could do nothing. The assassins separated immediately upon the consummation of the deed. The principals went down the Calle de Greda to the Prado, and along the Prado to the Calle de Atocha, which they followed for a certain distance, and thence turned off to a tavern in the district before mentioned as occupied by the poorest and lowest classes. This part of the city is designated as "Los Barrios Bajos." Here the murderers quietly awaited the companions who were to join them there. Upon the arrival of the latter supper was ordered, and while all Madrid was in a state of intense excitement, they made a hearty meal of beans, with pigs' feet, bread and wine. The tavern-keeper suspected nothing while they were there. He is a staunch Monarchist. The next day it flashed before him that his customers of the night before must have been the assassins, and he was right. He knows them all perfectly well, but has been generous enough not to denounce them.

THE RINGLEADERS.

Who devised and executed the crime? For the first, certain personages of undefined political creed, in union with certain white-gloved demagogues of Madrid. There was among the assassins a tall, one-eyed, light-haired man. This same man had, a few days previous to the murder, insulted some of the Monarchical Volunteers of a certain district of Madrid, at a place where they were in the habit of meeting, calling them "slavish Royalists," and had challenged them to "come out and fight him one by one." This person, so marked as to his personal appearance, known very well among the Los Barrios Bajos, would furnish an important clue to any but the Madrid Police. The volunteers of that district all know the man, and must remember when he insulted them, as it was only a few days before the deed was committed. That person is no longer in Madrid. A subscription was taken up for him, amounting to $70, in that same district where he supped that night on beans and pigs' feet, and with that sum he was enabled to escape from Madrid. A notary of Madrid, on reaching his office one morning, noticed that one of his clerks had shaved his beard and mustache. This, with other circumstances, caused him to suspect that the clerk was implicated in the assassination of PRIM. He then asked him, point-blank, if he knew anything of the matter. The answer was, "If you mention it again, I'll murder you." Could not the notaries of Madrid throw some light on the affair?

PROOFS.

Here we have, then, certain important personages in union with white-gloved demagogues, who concocted the crime. A tall, one-eyed, light-bearded man, who a few days previous to the crime publicly insulted a number of persons who all know him well, and who was the leader of the gang of assassins. Some demagogue orators, who offered to produce an insurrection in Madrid, at the moment of the consummation of the crime. A cabman, who knows where he was told to go for his cab, after the deed had been committed; a notary's clerk, who shaved his beard and mustache the day after the crime; a notary who suspected his clerk, and told him so, and who was threatened with death if he spoke of it again; the keeper of the tavern near the scene of the crime, where the cabman was drinking with some of the conspirators at the time of the assassination; the keeper of the tavern in Los Barrios Bajos, where the assassins took supper the night of the crime; a subscription in Los Barrios Bajos toward the escape of the light-bearded, one-eyed man.

THE REPUBLICANS GUILTLESS.

The crime is wrongly attributed to the Republicans. The Republicans, as a party, have had nothing to do with the crime. The instruments were chosen from men of the very lowest class, who call themselves Republicans, for, in Spain, all the poorest, the lowest and the most degraded, those who have nothing to lose, have taken to styling themselves Republicans. This is the great misfortune of the Republican Party.

MAIL NEWS BY THE STEAM-SHIP RISING STAR.

Late Isthmus Intelligence.

From the Panama Star & Herald.

By the steam-ship Guayuquil which arrived here on the evening of the 12th, we have dates from the interior to the 24th January last. With regard to affairs in Boyacá, a correspondent of the Bien Publico, of Bogotá, writing from Chiquinquirá, Jan. 17, ult., says a provisional government regularly organized, and with armed forces in its favor, overran the departments, and have gained victories in the field. On the 8th ult. Dr. POLICARPIO FLORES was proclaimed Provisional President, and Secretary-General Dr. J. J. VARGAS. On the 9th fifty men marched over to Moniquira; two days after the number increased to 100, who took the direction of Chiquinquirá, where they met with a part of the Government forces, which, however, withdrew to Tunja. The Provisional Government at present (17th) is in Chiquinquirá, with 200 men. An attack was made by the Government forces against the revolutionists in Sogamosa, but failed. The revolution of Boyacá, says the correspondent, has on its side members of all political parties, and has nothing to do with MOSQUERISTAS, but insists on the deposition of Señor PEREZ as having lost the confidence of the State. The revolutionary party has committed no excesses, imprisoned no one, and respected property, and has the sympathy of the majority of the citizens of the State. The column of Tundama has 300 men, and that of the centre eighty, under the command of Dr. F. PULGAR, and 150 at Soata, under Messrs. FICON and MONJICA. * * * The Illustration of the 10th ultimo, publishes a letter dated Guayaquil, 9th November last, directed to a Señor PONTON, in Bogota, in which it is stated that President GARCIA MORENA arrived suddenly at that port on the 5th of January, and put in arrest Gen. J. M. URAGA, the Chief of the Police, and other Government employes. The Republic was declared in a state of siege, and Gen. URAGA sent to Quito under arrest. I have not been able, says the writer, to find out the true causes of these arrests, but it is reported that a plot had been discovered in which Gen. URAGA promised to deliver up the port into the hands of the enemies of President MORENA, for which he was to receive $80,000 in soles from Peru, in a short time, to settle the contract. . . . The Nueva Era of Bogota of the 19th January, a paper in favor of the candidature of Señor SANTIAGO PEREZ, has the following about that of Dr. JUSTO AROSEMENA: "The candidature of Dr. JUSTO AROSEMENA has been adopted in the States of the Coast, according to a sheet dated Santa Martha, and printed in Barranquilla. Although this sheet has no signatures there is no doubt that the distinguished citizen, Señor AROSEMENA, has many sympathisers in those States. We would regard the elevation of this gentleman to the Presidency of the Union, if such is the will of the nation, with as much pleasure as our own candidate. The indisputable personal merit of Señor AROSEMENA, the political school to which he has always belonged, and the circumstance of his candidature having nothing official in it are for us sufficient guarantees."....About the revolution in Boyacá, the Era says that it represents all the characters of a reaction essentially Mosquerista—all the chiefs of the revolution being of this party, and they will try to get the State to declare for Gen. SANTOS ACOSTA as candidate for President of the Union.

Central America.

From a circular issued at Nicaragua the 28th of January last, we find that one of the first acts of Congress, now in session, has been to declare Don VICENTE QUADRA President elect of the Republic of Nicaragua from the 1st of March next to the last of February, 1874. Don VICENTE QUADRA is one of the most prominent men of the country, and has gained the confidence of the people by his merits and antecedents.

Señor QUADRA did not wish to accept the honor, and wished to send in his resignation, but was induced to obey the wishes of the country. Out of 785 votes for President, only 13 were for other candidates. Great enthusiasm was shown in Granada at the news of the election of Señor QUADRA. Mr. HOLINBECK, the director of the company to navigate by steam Lake Nicaragua and the River St. John, had arrived at Leon. The line is fully established, and makes regular voyages. Mr. HOLINBECK intends also to put a steamer on Lake Managua.

COSTA RICA.

The Gaceta Oficial of Feb. 4, says with respect to the question which has arisen between the Republic and that of Nicaragua, regarding the Ayon-Chevalier Interoceanic Canal Treaty, that the difficulty hinges on the following propositions: First—The project of treaty celebrated between the Plenipotentiaries, D. A. JIMENEZ and D. MARIANO MONTEALEGRE, for the excavation of an interoceanic canal through the territories of Costa Rica and Nicaragua, is highly prejudical to Costa Rica. Second—The Republic of Costa Rica had a perfect right to declare null the project of treaty, when the decree of 23d November, last year, was issued, and third, that the mode of proceeding in the emission of this decree was legal. As to the first proposition it is observed that by article 26 of the project, Costa Rica was bound to make no ulterior canal, concession, nor construct a railroad from any point of the Pacific to San Juan on the Atlantic. The privation of this right would not have mattered much if there had been or existed any chance of a canal being undertaken. Mr. CHEVALIER, whom it does not know either by sight or correspondence. It merely celebrated the project of a treaty with the Government of Nicaragua, from which, as prejudicial to Costa Rica, it withdraws. The Minister of Foreign Relations, in replying to an explanatory note from the Government of Salvador as to the causes of the quarrel between it and Honduras, says the Government of Costa Rica sincerely desires a friendly feeling between Salvador and Honduras, and offers its mediation, if acceptable to both.

GUATEMALA.

Our correspondent in Guatemala, under date of the 31st of January last, says that during the month which terminates at this date, the Legislative Chamber of Representatives has been occupied in affairs which the Government had submitted to its consideration, as well as in those initiated by some of the members. The Budget for the fiscal year has been approved; the liquidation and conversion of the funds proceeding from the loan contracted in London in 1869; also, the Money law and other matters. The Republic progresses in peace, and the inhabitants are devoting themselves to agriculture, trade and industry. The harvests of cochineal, coffee and sugar are likely to be abundant. There has been no alteration in the peace of the other Republics of Central America, for although a difference has arisen between Salvador and Honduras, which threatens to disturb the previous good understanding between them, both have accepted the mediation of Guatemala, which is now endeavoring to procure a pacific settlement of the dispute.

SALVADOR.

The Constitucional of Feb. 2 has an article on the situation of the Republic, from which, bearing in mind the warlike rumors which had reached us and confirmed by the arrival of the steam-ship Costa Rica, we have examined it for some light on the subject. The Senate of the Republic of Salvador, considering the alarm which prevails in the Republic, owing to the warlike preparations which have been going on in and by the Government of Honduras since the month of December last, and without any justifiable motive, has decreed that the Legislative Chambers suspend their meetings on the 31st January last, until again convoked by the Executive. Passports are to be demanded from all persons passing the frontiers, and traveling between the towns of the Departments of La Union, San Miguel, San Vicente and Chalatenango, which passports are to be obtained from the Governors or Alcaldes of the towns last left. Dr. DON RAFAEL ZALDIVAR has been named Minister of War.... With respect to the question between Salvador and Honduras, the Constitucional says, that the Government of Guatemala addressed itself to that of Honduras on the 31st of December last, proposing a means of settling the difference between the two Republics; the mediation was accepted on the 18th of January by the Honduras Government, according to communications received on the 29th of the same, in the Ministry of Relations, and it is believed a pacific arrangement may yet be arrived at. But as Honduras has forces on the frontiers, Salvador has put itself on guard, and is preparing troops sufficient for defense, in case it should be attacked.

A fire in Springfield, Ill., on Thursday morning, was very destructive. A large amount of printed matter, belonging to the State, and in the hands of the binders, was burned, and as the rooms of the four Masonic Lodges, as well as those of the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge, was in one of the buildings destroyed, all their records and reports, and their library were lost. The library was very rich in reports of the proceedings of Grand Lodges from all parts of the world, and it contained a great many handsome works, some of these being unique, and all very rare and valuable. There was no insurance on the library, or other valuables in this office.

From the Philadelphia Record, Feb. 27.

At 8½ o'clock yesterday morning an attempt was made to murder Miss MAGGIE CAHEN, twenty years of age, by smothering her with pillows while she was still asleep in bed. It is alleged that the young lady's mother and brother, ABRAHAM CAHEN, made the attempt to murder her, and they have both been placed in custody. The affair occurred in the family residence, on Hope-street, above Girard-avenue. The motive of the would-be murderers is stated to be their aversion to Miss CAHEN's receiving addresses from a young Christian gentleman, she and her family being Israelites. The injuries to Miss CAHEN are quite serious, but late last evening her attending physician expressed hopes of her ultimate recovery.

A RESPITE FOR RULLOFF.

Hearing before Hon. Charles A. Rapallo—Writ of Error and Stay of Proceedings Granted—A New and Interesting Question of Law.

At noon yesterday, P. W. HOPKINS, Esq., District Attorney of Broome County; CHARLES L. BEALS, Esq., of Hudson; and GEORGE BECKER, Esq., of Binghamton, counsel for the condemned murderer, EDWARD H. RULLOFF, repaired, in accordance with previous notice, to the residence of Hon. CHARLES A. RAPALLO, No. 17 West Thirty-first-street, to argue a motion for a writ of error and stay of proceedings.

The matter was heard informally by Judge RAPALLO. The argument made for the condemned embraced the same points substantially made before the Supreme Court in General Term, a few days ago, when a new trial was denied. It was especially urged that there had been error in admitting evidence to establish the identity of the two drowned burglars, JARVIS and DEXTER, by means of photographs. Another alleged error was in the fact that Judge HOGEBOOM had submitted to the jury the consideration of the question of murder in the first degree, as the evidence showed that the prisoner, if guilty at all, was guilty only of murder in the second degree, or of one of the grades of manslaughter. It was also urged that the evidence regarding the finding of burglars' tools in the room of RULLOFF, at No. 170 Third-avenue, by Capt HEDDEN, was improperly admitted. It was urged as strong reasons for a review of the proceedings, that the evidence showed that the clerks had used more violence than was necessary to expel the burglars from the store, and that the trial occurred in the midst of a public excitement which made it impossible for the prisoner to obtain a fair hearing. Upon the latter point Mr. BECKER offered to read an affidavit, showing the outburst of applause in the Court-room during the trial, but Judge RAPALLO declined to hear it, and said generally, upon all these aspects of the case, that all the facts had been settled by the jury, and he assumed had been settled correctly. They certainly could not be brought up on a writ of error.

In combating the propositions of the counsel for the defense, District-Attorney HOPKINS contended that all the rulings in the Oyer and Terminer before Judge HOGEBOOM were correct. He then took up each point made by the defense separately, and argued that none were well taken, and that the prisoner had had a fair trial and had no cause of complaint. He also held that the Court of Appeals could not possibly come to any different conclusion than had been reached in the General Term, as there was certainly no error in admitting the establishing of identification by means of photographs, as facts had been established in civil cases by means of photographs.

Having listened attentively to the gentlemen, Judge RAPALLO said that some of the exceptions presented were new, which it would be well to have decided in the Court of Appeals. This was especially the case as to the point of identification by photographs, which is entirely novel in criminal practice and of great importance generally, although in the case at Bar there was evidence enough without these photographs to establish the identity of JARVIS and DEXTER. He said further that it had never been decided by the Court of Appeals what a Judge might say to a jury in reference to an omission to swear the prisoner in his own behalf, but he thought that in the present case Judge HOGEBOOM had corrected any error he might have made in his subsequent remarks, when his attention was called to what he had said. He concluded by saying that he had not the least doubt in his own mind of the guilt of the prisoner, and the only question for review was whether he had been legally convicted. In order that the prisoner might have every benefit, he said that he would grant the writ of error, with a stay of proceedings, and fixed the hearing of the case peremptorily before the Court of Appeals, at Albany, on the 15th of March next, and this was granted upon a written stipulation given by the counsel for the defense to District-Attorney HOPKINS, that they would bring the case to an argument on that day. In case they do not, it was distinctly understood that Mr. HOPKINS was at liberty to then move to dismiss the writ.

The legal effect of the action of Judge RAPALLO is, of course, to indefinitely postpone the execution of RULLOFF, which had been fixed for Friday next. Mr. BECKER left, last evening, for Albany to get the seal of the Court attached to the writ, and will arrive in Binghamton in time to serve it on Sheriff MARTIN before the day fixed for the execution. In case the verdict is sustained by the Court of Appeals, RULLOFF will be taken to Elmira in April to be re-sentenced in the Supreme Court General Term.

RELIEF FOR FRANCE.

An Appeal to the Farmers—General Call from the Chamber of Commerce Committee—Contributions.

The Chamber of Commerce Committee for the Relief of France publish the following appeal prepared by Mr. CAPRON:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25.

To the Farmers of the Country:

The wants of the peasant farmers of Northern and Central France rendered imperative by the spoliations of war, appeal to the sympathies and benevolence of Americans, who can never forget the disinterested services of Frenchmen in our early struggles of national independence. The season of seed time is approaching and the supplies of seed to insure a harvest and avert a famine must, in a large measure, come from England, Belgium and America. In this generous national rivalry it is to be hoped that this country will not be distanced. The New-York Chamber of Commerce offers to give free transportation to France, through its Relief Committee, to all grains and seeds contributed, and will pay freight charges to New-York on any invoice exceeding 100 bushels; but local donors should arrange with interior railroads for free transportation, if possible, to New-York City. The best local varieties of Spring wheat, of last year's crop, sound and clean, are especially desirable, yet Winter wheat may be contributed where Spring wheat is not attainable. The

from the Circuit Court for the District of Louisiana.—The appellant in this case was assignee of a one-third interest in the railroad named in the title, which had been assigned to it by one Graham, who, with one May and Beauregard, were the owners of the lease of the road for a period of twenty-five years, and this action was brought to compel the Company to recognize the transfer. On the trial it appeared that May had paid in all the money which stood on the books in the name of Graham, and it was claimed therefore that the latter had only a nominal interest, and the bank took nothing by the assignment. It also appeared that the assignment was made to secure certain sums due the bank, which were afterward paid, and otherwise secured. On these facts the Court held the complainant to be without equity as against the Railroad Company, and dismissed the bill as to it, with leave to the complainant to bring suit against Beauregard, May and Graham for a settlement of the partnership interests. Appeal was taken to this Court. May having been Assistant Treasurer at New-Orleans, and becoming indebted to the Government by defalcation, transferred all his property, including his two-third interest in the road, (one-third of which was nominally Graham's,) to the United States, to whom it was transferred to three other parties, with guarantees, and who were made defendants. This made it necessary for the Attorney-General to appear in the case to protect the rights guaranteed by the Government, and as counsel for those defendants.

F. Phillips for appellants; D. G. Campbell and J. M. Carlisle for appellees.

COURT OF APPEALS.

ALBANY, Feb. 28.—The following order has just been made by the Court:

That appeals from orders entitled to be heard as motions may, upon the request of either party, after the filing of the return, be put upon the calendar, noticed and brought on for hearing on any motion day.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Sutherland.

THE HOGAN WILL CASE—FAMILY QUARRELS—IMPORTANT LETTER OF THE DEAD.

Sarah C. Hatch et al., vs. Clara M. Peugnet et al.—The principal parties are children of Dr. and Mrs. Hogan. Dr. Hogan, before his death, conveyed certain property to his wife, and left by his will other property to her. A sudden death cut him off in 1865. His widow, Mrs. Hogan, gave up to her children, under the advice or urgency of Roswell D. Hatch, the husband of one of her daughters, some of this property. A third daughter went into the Convent of the Sacred Heart.

When Mrs. Hogan died, her will was found to leave certain legacies, including one to that convent, and the rest of the property to her daughter Clara, (Mrs. Peugnet,) to the exclusion of Mrs. Hatch. Mrs. Hatch and her husband at once commenced a suit to set aside her mother's will on the grounds of imbecility and undue influence. The trial was commenced on Wednesday, the opening being mainly an effort to show that the arrangement after Dr. Hogan's death was proper and satisfactory to Mrs. Hogan.

The first witness was Mrs. Hatch herself, who was kept on the stand for nearly four days, and in the course of the cross-examination she followed remarkable letter of Mrs. Hogan, made almost contemporaneously with her will, was given as explaining Mrs. Hogan's feelings:

MY DEAR CLARA: Before any important act of my life I have always implored the blessing of Divine Providence to direct me in the best way. I believe I have ever felt His kindly influence over me and all my acts; and now may God grant that, when I am gone, the same influence may guide you through life. Sarah has claimed and taken from me, with no right soever, the portion I should like so much to have given or left to her after my death; but of this you, dear child, are aware, as you know, while he was in his sound mind, had those Madison-avenue houses and No. 181 Macdougal-street made over to me, fee-simple, believing I could have no trouble, at least while that portion of the property, but to enjoy it quietly in the few years I could have so live after him. But I forgive her, and I therefore shall no longer on this painful subject, but hope God will forgive you your husband, and let it not be visited upon their children. Dear little Nellie is the one beloved God just as much as Sarah and He would have loved her equally, had she remained with Him to take care of the parents He gave her. Nellie was always good from her birth, and was always what she is now; therefore did not require to seclude herself from all that was dear to her in this world. She would have done more good in the world by her good example, &c., &c., than where she is, and would have been a great comfort to us. I had not the slightest desire to see Sarah or Ann Eliza, but I must say that I had not the slightest desire to give her up to the entire control of any human being; but so it is, and God only knows why it was permitted. I have had my will made by a lawyer, that there may be no contesting or quarreling about it after my decease. I have left all the power in your's and my friend Mr. Fleyd's hands to act according to my will, and this letter, which will be a guide to you to follow out my wishes. As I could not tell exactly what I should be, while still after all my expenses and debts are paid, more than will pay all, I bequeath, but if I live to see cases and personal estate, by reason or on account of any loss of income which may happen thereto, or by reason of any misfortune whatsoever, shall prove or become insufficient to answer and pay the debts, each and every of the legacies or bequests above mentioned, payment of my debts and funeral expenses then, and in such case, I do hereby order, will, and direct a deduction to be made from the said legacies or bequests as aforesaid is bequeathed, proportionately, according to the sums respectively given to each, anything contained in the will to the contrary notwithstanding; and if any one goes in opposition to my will and what I have here written, they shall be cut of from any share in my estate. I feel perfectly satisfied that you and Mr. Floyd will carry out every thing I have desired and directed, and after paying these three bequests as mentioned in the will, (to Convent, to Eugene, and to Mr. Floyd,) I wish you to put the twelve thousand dollars I left to you for Nellie's benefit out to interest, and pay out of the interest or small amount of the principal at a time, if she desires it, and you give her out of this sum anything which you may deem fit and proper in the way you may deem fit for her benefit, the rest I want not to have any control over this small portion of (12) twelve thousand dollars. Should she die before you do, then divide the remainder, or what may be left of the twelve thousand dollars, between your two and Sarah's two children, share and share alike. I make this disposition of my property, as I know that Nellie or any of the nuns are allowed no more than sufficient for the day. I think this is the best arrangement I can make for poor Nell, that she will enjoy what I leave her, and the rest of her property to the Convent, as not even a few dollars for her own private use. She will, of course, get her portion of my patrimony, which she will be at liberty to dispose of as she may deem fit. I hope the ladies of the Convent will not think from this letter that I have any unkind feelings toward them, as I have not. On the contrary, I feel under great obligations for their kindness to me. One thing only grieves me, and that is to witness the disunion and unsatisfactory feeling existing between Sarah and yourself—on your part more particularly. I therefore [illegible] the following, [illegible] that you believe, however, that feeling is kept up in you by Eugene and his friends. Overlooked is the following: I have scratched the clause because I have convinced myself to the contrary.] If I do not Christianize [illegible] more anxious to despise Mr. Hatch, and she but I feel that it is better to forgive than to resent any longer. You, Sarah and Nellie, are the only blood relation in the world; you each have your husbands, but, after all, they are not of the same flesh and blood of each other, since you cannot alter the case, and I've been tempted to err. I do not like to think of things this letter shall let it pass out of my mind and try to think of it no more. I thank you and Eugene, dear Clara, for your kind care and watchfulness over me since I left my own dear home, and believing it to be her vocation to do so, while in truth it was only the influence of a convent education. Had we interfered in any degree with her inclination and charities, there might have been some excuse for her leaving her natural protectors, those whom God, in His goodness, gave her to, and permitted to watch over her so long, while so many thousand have not been granted either father or mother. She adopted others who could not share half so much for her as we did. She could have loved God just as much at home, and He would have loved her equally, had she remained with us, and taken care of the parents He gave her. Nellie was always good from her birth, and was always what she is now; therefore did not require to seclude herself from all that was dear to her in this world. She would have done more good in the world by her good example, &c., &c., than where she is, and would have been a great comfort to us. I had not the slightest desire to see Sarah or Ann Eliza, but I must say that I had not the slightest desire to give her up to the entire control of any human being; but so it is, and God only knows why it was permitted. NEWS OF THE DAY.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

In the French Assembly, yesterday, President THIERS read the conditions of peace by which France cedes one-fifth of Lorraine, including Metz, Thionville, Longwy, and Saarbrück, and all of Alsace, except Belfort, and pays five milliards of francs indemnity—one milliard this year and the balance in three years. The German troops will withdraw from French territory as the indemnity is paid. The Departments south of the Seine will be evacuated when the treaty is ratified, and the other Departments when five hundred millions of the indemnity are paid. The fortresses will be occupied until the entire indemnity is paid. M. ROTHSCHILD says he will pay the entire indemnity within a year, and the German army of occupation will be got rid of as soon as possible. The armistice is prolonged until March 12. The Germans attacked Havre in ignorance of the prolongation, but were checked by a flag of truce announcing the news. The Saxon, Baden, Bavarian and Wurtemburg troops are to take part in the triumphal entry into Berlin. A Versailles telegram says all the preparations by the Germans to enter Paris are made, but the order has been deferred until today. The excitement in the city is still very great, but there was no disorder throughout Monday. A manifesto, signed by the editors of forty journals, exhorts the people to be calm and dignified under the approaching trial. The Bourse and theatres will be closed during the German occupation of the city. The German troops will be confined to their quarters while in the city. The powder magazine at Villette has been plundered by the soldiers.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Spanish difficulty with Egypt is likely to be amicably settled, as Spain has accepted the offers of mediation....Agrarian outrages are reported from various parts of Ireland, and a few persons have been killed.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, the Conference Committees on Appropriation bills were appointed. The bill for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals on Railroads was considered, but no vote reached. The Army Appropriation bill was then taken up. An amendment directing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad one-half the compensation for services rendered to the Government, gave rise to considerable debate, and was finally adopted by a vote of 36 to 18. In the evening the consideration of the bill was continued, and an amendment was proposed extending the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to the case of loyal citizens of the South. This was debated at length, but not disposed of.

In the House, Committees of Conference on several Appropriation bills were appointed. Several bills were passed, among them that relating to a centennial celebration at Philadelphia, in 1876. The motion of Mr. DAWES to reconsider the Sundry Civil Service Appropriation bill then came up, and was agreed to. A substitute was then offered, leaving out all the provisions for new buildings, with the exception of those previously authorized. A motion to strike out the appropriation for League Island was rejected, and the substitute was then adopted and the bill passed. A Conference Committee on the Southern Pacific Railroad bill was ordered after some discussion. The bill authorizing the construction of the Cincinnati and Southern Railroad was passed by a vote of 131 to 62. A motion to repeal the rules and pass the bill for the protection of loyal citizens failed by yeas 127, nays 65. The rules were suspended and the bill repealing the duty on coal passed by a vote of 144 to 45. To-day the calendar is to be gone through with, in order that bills against which there are no objection may be passed.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Among the bills introduced in the Senate, yesterday, were one by Mr. TWEED to repeal the act for improving certain streets in New-York, passed in 1870, in so far as relates to Madison-avenue; one to increase capital stock of the Commonwealth Insurance Company $500,000, and one by Mr. GENET defining the duties and liabilities of gold and stock brokers, providing that they shall be deemed subject to their liabilities. The bill authorizing the appointment of additional clerks in the District Courts of New-York was reported. Resolutions requesting our Representatives in Congress to urge the passage of laws taxing Government bonds, to secure the abolition of all the tariff duties on coal and other legislation, were offered and went over under the rules. Another, requesting them to vote for the repeal of the income tax was adopted after debate. In the Assembly a bill was introduced to establish a Police force for Yonkers. Two unimportant bills were returned with objections by the Governor, and the bills were rejected. The House then took a recess till evening. At the evening session a dispatch was read from Hon. FERNANDO WOOD, announcing the passage in Congress of the resolution to remove duties on coal. A joint resolution of thanks was offered by Mr. HITCHMAN. Mr. ALVORD objected, as he wished debate upon it, and it went over after a strong opposition.

GENERAL.

In the New-Jersey Senate, yesterday, the bill to repeal the act of last session under which increased freight-rates on the Erie Railway were imposed, was lost. The Governor yesterday vetoed the bill permitting the Morris Canal Company to lease their properties and franchises on account of unfair preferences in favor of preferred over common stockholders. A joint resolution in favor of annexing Staten Island to New-Jersey was offered in the House.

The Joint Committee of the Legislature began the investigation into the New-Hamburg disaster, yesterday, at Albany. One witness produced the watch of the deceased engineer, SIMMONS, which was found to have stopped at 10:25 P. M., seventeen minutes after the train was due at that point. The investigation will be resumed today.

The Indiana House of Representatives met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, and, after a short address, the Speaker declared the House adjourned without day, the Senate having adjourned the day before sine die.

Gov. HOFFMAN has signed the following bills: For widening Broadway, New-York City; for further supply of water to New-York City; for completion of the Court-house in the Third Judicial District, New-York.

Capt. ARTHUR, of the British ship Mary Bargs, was convicted, in the United States Circuit Court, in San Francisco, on Monday, of resisting the Custom-house officer, and landing a cargo in defiance of the orders of the inspector.

Three more jurors in the Filkins case were obtained yesterday in Albany, making ten in all.

The steamers of the Norwich line came up to their wharf yesterday, in Norwich, for the first time since the closing of navigation by the ice.

A half square between Frenchman, Roman, Union and Derbigny streets, New-Orleans, was burned on Monday night. Loss $30,000; mostly insured.

HENRY C. ROBINSON was yesterday nominated by the Republicans for State Senator in the Hartford District of Connecticut.

The movement for the impeachment of Gov. CLAYTON, and the Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court of Arkansas, seems to have failed, through the action of the absent Senators, who are said to have adopted rules, in the swamps, which made it impossible for the managers to proceed. Gov. CLAYTON is said to be preparing to leave for Washington.

The fishery question was discussed in the Canadian Senate on Monday night. A French Senator said England would sacrifice the fisheries before going to war. The Minister of Marine and the Fisheries repudiated the idea.

The Pennsylvania Coal Company's miners met at Pittston on Monday, and refused to mine by the car, the terms offered by the company.

A train on the Pan Handle Railroad ran off the track near Mansfield, Penn., yesterday morning, and one passenger and two sleeping cars were burned. But one person was injured.

French Taxation and the Terms of Peace.

The pecuniary indemnity which Germany demands of France is simply enormous. There is, after the declaration by M. THIERS, no reason to doubt that it has been correctly reported. France has purchased peace, therefore, at a price which seems absolutely ruinous, and which, if ever paid, will give her the unenviable distinction of having the heaviest public debt in the world. At the beginning of 1870 the official statement of the public debt shows a total of $2,600,000,000. During 1870 three loans were contracted which, when capitalized, will amount at least to $400,000,000. The war expenditure, which the nation has still to cover by a duly authorized loan, cannot be less than another $200,000,000. Germany now demands $1,000,000,000, and if France can borrow this at all, it will only be on such terms as must increase the capital of the obligation by one-half, and so make the indemnity actually reach the figure of $1,500,000,000. Suppose at the end of three or more, probably of six years, France should be able to pay this enormous bill, she will find herself in the possession of a national debt which reaches the alarming total of $4,700,000,000.

We think it extremely questionable whether the money markets of the world will take up, even by installments, the prodigious sum which the French negotiators propose to raise. The sensational offer which today's telegrams attribute to Baron ROTHSCHILD is in the last degree improbable. To financiers the question has three elements, each mutually affecting each other. The first relates to the probable stability of the government to be selected by the French people; the second, to the amount of the loan likely to be subscribed for by France herself; and the third, to the expansiveness of French taxation. Suppose a constitutional monarchy to be securely established in France, it is highly probable that the capitalists of the country would subscribe to the full measure of their ability for a share of the national burden. The Orleanists are in favor with the commercial and moneyed classes, and would, in the estimation of these sections of the people, and probably in that of Europe at large, be credited with a larger expectation of existence than any republic, however moderate. It must not, however, be forgotten that the comparative facility with which the Empire raised money arose from its success in drawing out the hoards of petty proprietors and tradesmen from the very unproductive places of deposit which still find favor with this class of Frenchmen. It is extremely doubtful whether either Orleanists or Republicans would have, for some time, at least, the same success, while the extent to which Prussian requisitions have depleted these private accumulations renders them at the same time less available, and will make their possessors inclined to hold on with more than accustomed tenacity to what remains. In an economical point of view, a moderate republic might have this advantage over a monarchy, that it could push the reduction of the army and the fleet to a lower point. Neither of them could, to any sweeping extent, reduce the cost of civil administration, and exist in France for a single day. The figure of fifty-three millions of dollars which we previously gave as the limit to which reduction of annual expenditure could be carried, could hardly be exceeded by a monarchy, and could only be passed with some difficulty by a strong and moderate republic.

The ultimate question must therefore be, what amount of fresh taxation can be borne by France without crippling her energies, and therefore defeating its own purpose? Take the most favorable view of the case, and assume that the annual expenditure of France can be reduced sufficiently to cover these three items of deficit; first, the ten or twelve millions of revenue which, even under the reduced territorial cession, will be lost to the National Treasury; second, the perpetually recurring yearly deficit of some thirty millions, which formed so notable a character of the Imperial Budgets, and third, the large decrease in the taxable resources of France resulting from the war. Even under a supposition so favorable, and one whose realization will call for administrative energies of a very high order, there still remains an annual increase of at least ninety millions of dollars of interest on the $2,100,000,000 of debt which the events of 1870-71 will be found to have added to the liabilities of France. The main sources of French revenue are the land taxes, taxes on trade and personal property, post-office and customs, and excise and monopolies. Nearly twenty-five per cent. of the entire revenue is derived from what is called the registration and stamp duties, which are chiefly levied upon land in the indirect manner of a tax upon transfers, either by sale or testament, of real estate. Proprietors pay directly another nine per cent. of the entire revenue raised by the National Government in the form of the Foncier tax, besides paying a similar amount to the local Governments.

It has been pointed out that, assuming the real estate of France to be worth six hundred and thirty millions of dollars, it is already directly taxed to the amount of ten per cent., and indirectly by the registration duties to another five per cent. That any more can be got out of it either by the local or national Governments, is hardly to be credited by any one familiar with the temper of the peasant proprietors of France. The excise duties on alcoholic liquors, and the tobacco and powder monopolies, yield about thirty-five per cent. of the entire revenue. The prospects of an available increase in this direction are also exceedingly meagre. The Post-office yields five per cent., and the Customs eight per cent. of the total revenue. An attempt will doubtless be made to increase the income from the latter source, probably at the expense of the reciprocity treaties with England, Belgium and Switzerland. The chief effect of this will probably be to enrich French manufacturers and to make the problem of living rather harder to the mass of the people, without having any appreciable result on the revenue. France has no income tax, but it has a personal and furniture tax, a tax on doors and windows, and a trade license tax, yielding between them eight per cent. of the entire revenue, which closely resemble it. These are already considered heavy, and could not be increased without causing evasions that would defeat the end of making them more productive. In short, whichever way the French financier turns he finds a community already heavily burdened, and one whose tax-paying power can only increase with an increase of resources. A more scientific distribution of taxation is possible, but an increase under the present conditions can only be very partial and very questionably productive. This is a fact which the administrators at home must be at once prepared to face, and which the lenders abroad are not likely to lose sight of. The borrowing power of France depends absolutely upon how this fact is disposed of, and whatever indemnity she may agree to pay, it will only be under the most enlightened government that there is the slightest possibility of her being found able to do so.

Congress and the Duty on Coal.

By a vote that should be decisive, the House of Representatives yesterday called up and passed the bill abolishing the duty on coal. The bill was reported some time ago under instructions, from the House, but was too far down on the calendar to be reached without some other effort than is always possible under the rules of the House. It has been twice made evident that a large majority of the members are hostile to the continuance of a tax which, while insignificant as a source of revenue, is potent as a monopolizing agency. So unmistakable an expression of opinion, and one so completely harmonizing with popular sentiment, should not be frustrated by technicalities or endangered by lukewarmness in the Senate.

A glaring outrage has invested the question with an interest it never possessed before. The impolicy and injustice of the tax have always been apparent. But the scarcity of coal in the market, the exhaustion of the supplies at the Pennsylvania mines, and the extortion of many of the dealers,—are circumstances which have concentrated attention, as it never was concentrated before, upon the power of a gigantic monopoly, and the heartlessness with which that power is exercised. The coal companies are leagued with the transportation companies, and, together, they have the public at their mercy. The suffering for which they are now directly responsible is wide-spread and intense. The hardships which the embargo practically imposed upon the use of coal entail upon the poor, are aggravated by the sickness that is consequent upon the absence of artificial warmth at this season of the year. Such a condition of things had been impossible without the aid rendered by Congress to the coal companies. The law "protects" them, and the protection it confers enables the operators to grind the faces of the poor, to tax severely classes more fortunately situated, and to embarrass many important branches of industry. Public indignation, therefore, is divided between the monopolists, and the legislation that gives to monopoly an essential element of its strength. Congress will act unwisely if it permit the session to end with the law imposing a prohibitory duty upon imported coal still upon the statute book.

The supporters of the monopoly remind us that the duty is upon bituminous coal, while Pennsylvania mainly produces anthracite. The inference we are asked to accept is, that between the tax and the present price of anthracite there is no connection. This special pleading one simple fact upsets. The coal tax was enacted at the bidding of the Pennsylvania monopolists, and they are today the chief opponents of its repeal. We presume that they know what they are about. They are not actuated by any special desire to benefit the Treasury, for, as we have remarked, the revenue derived from the tax is small indeed. They are not likely to exhibit a peculiar interest in the retention of a tax which entails upon themselves and the Republican Party the odium of monopoly, for no other purpose than to punish the Nova Scotians. But one conceivable motive exists, and that is the motive which impels the same men to uphold excessive duties on other articles of prime necessity. The coal tax is a protective tax, or it is purposeless; and the class most clamorous for whatever protection it affords, is the class that is enriched by the present exorbitant price of anthracite coal. There is, then, a direct connection between the duty on bituminous coal and the anthracite monopoly, whatever the organs of the monopoly say to the contrary.

Nor is it difficult to trace the connection. If the Atlantic markets freely admitted Nova Scotia coal, its production would be stimulated, the supply would be constant and large, and the average price, compared with the average of Pennsylvania coal, would be very low. It could be profitably sold here at half the lowest price of anthracite, and at little more than quarter of the price now obtained for that article at the yards. For many reasons the anthracite is greatly superior; for some purposes, it will always be exclusively used. The cheapness of bituminous coal would, however, gradually commend it for various forms of domestic consumption, and its use for industrial purposes would soon be very large. Of this we may be confident: if Nova Scotia coal were now accessible here at four or four and a half dollars per ton, it would instantly exert a marked influence upon the price of anthracite, and the monopoly that has called forth the curses of thousands, would be impossible.

Whether the repeal of the duty would or would not be followed by all the benefits that are in some quarters expected from it, is a question which Congress is not required to consider. It is enough that the coal monopoly exists in good part by virtue of national legislation, and that until the duty is repealed, Congress must share with the monopolists the odium that is inseparable from the present state of the coal question.

Sold for Old Copper.

There is something almost sad in the statement that the original plates of that magnificent work, AUDUBON'S Birds of America, were recently sold in this City for their value as old copper, after having vainly sought a purchaser upon their artistic merits. But the new owners, who are well-known merchants, have agreed to wait a reasonable time for any proposition to redeem the plates from the destruction which otherwise awaits them.

There is a history belonging to these despised copper plates which alone ought to secure their careful preservation. The labors which preceded the publication of AUDUBON'S monumental work made up a record of romance, danger, hardship, perseverance, and devotion to Nature such as few books can boast of inspiring. Born of French parents in Louisiana, AUDUBON early showed a love for natural history, which was most aptly supplemented by a taste for drawing. This led to his being sent to France, where he became the pupil of the celebrated painter DAVID. Returning, at seventeen years of age, to America, he settled near Philadelphia, married, farmed, and traded by turns, with little success, but spent his leisure in laying the foundation of his great work by making drawings of all the birds he saw. But when he tried to sell these drawings, he found no one capable of appreciating, or willing to purchase, them. He then went to the West and alternated between prospecting and merchandizing, but carefully kept in mind his great design as to a description of the birds of America. He became an enthusiastic adventurer, and with no companion and no assistance, explored the wilds of Western woods and prairies and river-bottoms in search of subjects for his pencil and his pen.

While absent from home on one of these expeditions, rats found their way into the box which held his drawings, and utterly destroyed what had cost poor AUDUBON years of toil and care. When he learned this, the blow came near killing him outright. But recovering from the sickness which this sorrow brought upon him, he started out again to do his work, and spent three whole years in replacing what the rats had destroyed. When he had prepared his drawings, and was ready to publish them to the world, he tried in vain to find a publisher. Few could appreciate them; those who did recognize their value had no money to risk, and some of the best American engravers said that the drawings could never be engraved. This was in Philadelphia; and New-York was not more kindly inclined, and, thus discouraged by his own country, he turned to England. In England he was welcomed at once. Referring to his reception there, (it was in 1826,) he says: "My drawings were publicly exhibited, and publicly praised. Joy swelled my heart. The first difficulty was surmounted. Honors which Philadelphia had refused, Liverpool freely accorded." Thus favored, his work rapidly progressed and was brought out in London in 1828. The engraving was done in an artistic manner by ROBERT HAVEL, Jr., and the work was issued in numbers, each containing five plates. By the end of 1828 eleven numbers had been published, the price being two guineas each. As was then the fashion, (and in this instance a necessity,) subscriptions had been taken for the work in advance of publication, and 184 copies were subscribed for by 179 persons. Among the names of patrons were those of GEORGE IV., CHARLES X., Queen ADELAIDE, LOUIS PHILIPPE, the Princess of ORLEANS, Prince MASSENA, Prince CHARLES L. BONAPARTE, Baron CUVIER, EDWARD EVERETT, (for the Library of Congress,) Hon. T. H. PERKINS, (for the Boston Athenæum,) and Baron KRUDENER, the Russian Envoy. There were only four or five American subscribers, three of whom were Baltimoreans, and one, Miss DOUGLASS, a New-Yorker.

In 1834 the second volume was published, and when completed the work consisted of four volumes of plates and five of letter-press illustrations. In all, the book contained four hundred and sixty-five plates, which represented one thousand and sixty-five birds of the size of life, carefully drawn and beautifully colored. Successful at last, and grateful to those who had ministered to the cravings of his genius, AUDUBON accredited Britain with his success. "She has furnished," his preface says, "the artists through whom my labors were to be presented to the world; she has granted me the highest patronage and honors;—in a word, she has thus far supported the prosecution of my illustrations. To Britain, therefore, I shall ever be grateful."

The original work is large, costly, and now rarely purchasable. It is worth not far from $1,000. There are several copies in New-York, one of which belongs to the Mercantile Library, having been presented by some liberal friends of the institution several years ago. The plates, after various strange adventures—in one of which, in Spruce-street, some years ago, they narrowly escaped destruction by fire—have, as we have seen, sunk to that lowest level of human appreciation, the scrap-heap, and, unless some unlikely phase of public spirit developes itself, will soon be remanded into copper kettles or worse. Thus is true art admired and encouraged.

A New Feature of Modern "Social Progress."

As one sign of what some people are pleased to call "progress," we may mention that a member of the English Parliament is said to be about to bring in a bill to legalize marriages for a limited period; and that Mr. MONCURE D. CONWAY, whose name, as an American, is well known in this country, has printed in London a book in which he argues that marriages should be terminable at any time. Marriage, according to this gentleman, is a relic of our hereditary monastic morality, "and also a grim idol about whom nearly all our social superstitions are entrenched with his blood-reeking altar." These and some other statements render Mr. CONWAY'S adoption of his main thesis more intelligible than it might otherwise be. It is clear that the iconoclasts are not confined to our own community; and that they are at least as outspoken and as eager for demolition in Europe as they are in some quarters of America.

These facts are mentioned only to show that the skeptical or critical spirit of the age is no longer exclusively manifested in particular communities, or in the presence of particular forms of government or religion. Mr. BUCKLE, with his passion for analogies and his plausible erudition, always found neat theories attributing all the phenomena of sociology to certain antecedent conditions of diet, faith, and laws. But the same tendencies respecting existing social institutions, the same class of efforts to destroy existing relations, with or without substituting others, are not developed, it is manifest, in the free atmosphere of republics alone. That literary humbug, Mr. HEPWORTH DIXON, tried to persuade the world that the marriage tie was breaking down generally in the United States. But the crazy theories to which he referred are peculiar to no nation or country, any more than fools are confined to one region of the globe. In the time of SHELLEY, (whom Mr. ROSSETTI praises for the ease with which he cast off his wife,) such a book as Mr. CONWAY'S would have been hailed with delight by the authors of Queen Mab and Don Juan; now it will probably be welcomed only by a few men like ROSSETTI, who appear to find most social restrictions a nuisance.

"Please Pay My Bill."

Some time ago the World endeavored to account for the hostility of the TIMES to the "Ring" by trumping up a foolish story about a bill due to us of some $13,000 from the City. According to the World—which never could understand people doing anything from conviction or principle—this unpaid bill was the sole cause of our opposition; just as if its friends, the Tweedites, would not gladly have paid a hundred such bills, if by so doing they could have silenced attack upon them. The World knew all this time that it was uttering that which was not true; but, no doubt, there was a lunatic here and there who credited its story—just as some people still believe that BAZAINE and MCMAHON effected a junction of their forces, that the great "victory" at Saarbrück decided the war in favor of the French, and that the Tennessee was lost, with the most brilliant writer of two hemispheres in the chief ship—all which facts have been set forth from time to time in the World. We now find that the World had confused our case with its own. It appears that it had a bill against the City which the City refused to pay, that it brought a suit to recover the money, and that the City still declined to pay on the ground that the World was never requested or employed to do the advertising claimed for." Perhaps the World thinks it deserved better treatment after all the dirt it swallowed in behalf of the Ring last Fall, but it wanted the money very badly, and consequently pressed hard for it. The City pleaded that there was no money to apply to plaintiff's claim—but still the World demanded its pound of flesh. The amount was $15,111 11, rather an important sum to the World. It thinks that even $13,000 is quite enough to buy a paper outright. At last the excellent Judge CARDOZO came to its relief, and ordered the City to pay the money. This, doubtless, relieved the managers from much anxiety. According to their own ideas about newspaper management, the World can now afford to be independent. People who are fools enough to believe that an ex-paid bill can decide the course of a great journal, will naturally anticipate great things from the World, now that its own "little account" is settled.

MINOR TOPICS.

If the funds belonging to this City have been properly spent, why does not Controller CONNOLLY produce his report, in accordance with law? Mr. PETER COOPER and his friends certify that the management of the City is in good hands, and that TWEED, SWEENY, and CONNOLLY are thoroughly to be trusted. Then why are not the accounts of receipts and expenditure placed before the tax-payers? We say that twelve millions might easily have been saved last year, and would undoubtedly have been saved if honest men had stood at the head of affairs. We will prove it if CONNOLLY, alias "Slippery Dick," will give us access to his books. It is nonsense to call such a statement as this a "vague assertion." A "Ring" paper said yesterday that the people are "well satisfied with their municipal Government." They are not satisfied, but they are at present too supine to resist it. Let TWEED and SWEENY get their new Tax Levy scheme into operation, and the most apathetic community in the world will at last be roused to indignation.

One or two adherents of the "Ring" assure us that eight hundred thousand dollars have not been paid for the furniture of each window—including sunshade, and cornice-poles—in the new Court-house. They tell us that the sum was eight thousand dollars. Dear, dear—how very cheap! Well, if anybody will prove that we were wrong, by showing us a copy of the Controller's accounts, we will thank him and take it all back. But we must have a true copy of the Controller's accounts before doing that. We defy any of the Bohemians employed by the "Ring" to show us a transcript of the 'Ring's" accounts. Eight thousand dollars a window even would be a pretty good price to pay—there is no need to exaggerate it. But how delighted the hired organs of the Ring will be to cackle over the egg which was put down in their path yesterday. What an opportunity there is for the World to roll out a few Johnsonian periods, in its light and easy style, and dilate upon the "anfractuosities of the human mind."

By an irregular but not ineffective method, the Senate has formally sanctioned the conclusion reached by the Judiciary Committee with reference to the controversy between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Pacific Railroad Companies. To give effect to the Committee's report, Mr. STEWART yesterday moved an amendment to the Army Appropriation bill, requiring the Secretary to pay the companies one-half of the compensation earned by them in the service of the Government,—in other words, limiting his demand upon the companies, on account of interest to one-half of the compensation due them for service, with five per cent. of their net earnings. In the debate which ensued, Messrs. TRUMBULL, STEWART, SHERMAN and others contended that the construction of the law by the Attorney-General is in direct violation of its terms and the terms of the contract entered into under it, and by adopting Mr. STEWART'S amendment, the Senate directly indorsed the claim put forward by the companies. It is to be hoped that the difference will now be considered ended.

If the appointment of M. POUYER QUERTIER as French Minister of Finance has any significance at all, it means that France has entered on a period of rigid protection. In the Corps Legislatif, and out of it, the manufacturer and banker, who has assumed what will be, after the conclusion of peace, the most important post in the Ministry, has been the foremost representative of protectionist doctrines, and the most bitter and persistent assailant of the reciprocity treaty with England. It only needed this appointment to make the Thiers Ministry one of the most incongruous coalitions of modern times. M. SIMON, the young Minister of Public Instruction, is as enthusiastic a free-trader as M. POUYER QUERTIER is a protectionist. Besides these, the Ministry contains an ex-Imperialist rear-admiral, a veteran Legitimist, Republicans of the new and old schools, and Orleanists of actual service and inherited attachment. The representative character of such a body is almost perfect—its administrative capabilities are of the most doubtful character. When the new Corps Legislatif takes up the functions of the National Assembly, we shall see a strife of parties in France which, in virulence, may probably exceed that of 1848.

The trumpery charges against the managers of the Children's Aid Society have been admitted, even by Senator NORTON, to be totally unfounded. Apart from the absurdity of allowing them to become the subject of a serious investigation at all, every friend of this truly useful and unsectarian charity must rejoice at the success with which a series of most unfounded accusations have been disposed of, and will accord to the Committee any credit it may justly claim for impartiality and candor. There is, however, work enough at Albany for committees of investigation, without seizing upon pretexts so frivolous as that afforded in the present instance.

As nearly as can be judged by existing indications, the territorial cession demanded by Germany amounts to three departments,—Moselle, Bas-Rhin and Haut-Rhin—excluding Belfort,—containing about two millions and a half of people, and yielding the National Exchequer of France about twelve millions of dollars per annum. Taking into account the advantages of commercial intercourse which will be lost to France by the transfer, together with the actual loss of revenue, the pecuniary sacrifice represented by the cession of these departments cannot be less than a capitalized sum of fifty millions of dollars. In other words—France agrees to pay Germany a pecuniary indemnity of one thousand millions, and a territorial indemnity of half that amount. In contenting herself with the northern section of Lorraine, Germany incorporates a population that contains more of the Teutonic elements than that occupying the region of which Nancy is the centre. It is difficult to believe that with a strategic frontier which will overlap Luxembourg, Prussia will not find some pretext for acquiring possession of the Grand Duchy also. When France pays the first installment of the indemnity, she will have money enough to buy it outright—though it is more probable that she will resort to the cheaper method so successfully followed in the case of Schleswig-Holstein.

It appears that the British House of Lords will soon free itself from the society of Bankrupt Peers. Lord GRANVILLE has undertaken to introduce a measure for that purpose, and it is clear, according to the London Press, that the House will sustain it. The old impunity, therefore, with which a nobleman could squander his substance, and bring ruin upon others, will be brought to an end. Such an abolition of exclusive privilege is another sign to add to the many that show how swift in England is becoming the march toward equal rights and equal responsibilities. There is certainly no insurmountable reason why a Peer who has shown himself unfit to manage his own property should continue to have a share in managing that of the nation; and as an incentive to prudence on the part of men in high station, the proposed measure commends itself as timely and judicious.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

MISS GLYN'S READINGS.

Miss GLYN reads "King John," today, at the theatre of the Union League Club. The reading begins at 3 o'clock, and will be the last of the present series. Miss GLYN has won celebrity in the part of Constance, and her delivery of this play has been by some pronounced her best effort. The opportunity is a good one for those who have not heard this able artist to repair the omission. We trust, as this is Miss GLYN'S farewell appearance for the present, that she will be greeted with a numerous and appreciative audience.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.

Mr. WALLACK appears to-night in one of the best of his eccentric parts, that of the persecuted hero of "Woodcock's Little Game." We have lately pointed out some of the peculiar excellencies of this performance, and now warmly recommend our readers to go and enjoy them. The entertainments begin with the exceedingly neat comedietta of "A Morning Call," in which Miss MADELINE HENRIQUES helps Mr. WALLACK to make one of the brightest hits, on a compact scale, of the season.

THE RUN OF "SARATOGA."

The protracted success of "Saratoga" is becoming one of the phenomenal events of dramatic history. Two or three times Mr. DALY has essayed to withdraw the comedy, but as often it has obstinately refused to be withdrawn, and it is thronging the house now with more profitable business than during the first week of its run. Mr. DALY has striven hard for success, and he has gained it, by thorough and artistic work. The fact is creditable, both to him and to the public, and as such it is generally recognized.

Musical.

GERMAN OPERA AT THE STADT.

The smooth course of the drama at the Stadt Theatre was broken last evening by an operatic performance by Mme. LICHTMAY, Messrs. BERNHARD, VIERLING, HABELMANN, and FORMES, and the company which lately closed a successful season at that house. "The Huguenots" was sung in presence of an audience that filled the place. The fact that opera-giving at the Stadt is always profitable shows that a love for music, represented by a willingness to pay for it, is a good deal more general among the German population than among the more fashionable persons who occasionally visited the Academy. Remarkable entertainments are not looked for, but good recitals are expected and are always supplied. The well-known artists whose names are mentioned above are singers of culture and experience, and the leading lady is to be alluded to with especial commendation. Mme. LICHTMAY has a powerful voice, great skill as a singer, and an amount of histrionic talent rarely possessed by prima donnas. She was a very fine Valentine, yesterday, and her share in the duet, with Marcel, and in the duo with Raoul, in the fourth act, called forth enthusiastic applause. The effect of the rendering suffered much from the hoarseness of Mr. BERNHARD, (the Raoul,) for which an apology was made. That the strength of the troupe was a little overtaxed by MEYERBEER'S most elaborate work may be said, indeed, without disparagement to it, for the demands of the composition are excessive. Mr. FORMES was St. Bris, Mr. VIERLING, Nevers, Mr. FRANOSCH, Marcel, and Miss HAFFNER, Urbain. The chorus, if not very strong, did its work with spirit and precision, and the telling points of "The Huguenots," and particularly the scene of the benediction of the swords, were quite impressive. Friday night, Mme. LICHTMAY and her associates, are to perform again.

MR. NEWELL'S CONCERT.

The first concert of this well-known pianist and organist will take place at Steinway Hall, on Thursday evening. As a pianist, Mr. NEWELL was a pupil of GOTTSCHALK, whose enchanting style he seeks to recall, in composition and performance. He will have the artistic aid, to-morrow, of Mrs. FARNHAM, soprano; Mr. ERNEST PERRING, tenor; Signor RANDOLFI, baritone; Mr. J. W. PIERSON, violinist, and Mr. JOSEPH A. MARSH, pianist. The two last-named gentlemen are amateurs.

Connecticut Nominations for Congress.

JOHN W. STEDMAN, of Norwich, was, yesterday, nominated for Congress by the Democratic Convention for the Third District of Connecticut. This completes the nominations by both parties and the candidates are as follows:

Dist.	Republican.	Democratic.
1.	Julius L. Strong.	Alfred L. Goodrich.
2.	Stephen W. Kellogg.	John Kendrick.
3.	H. H. Starkweather.	John W. Stedman.
4.	Geo. H. Coffing.	Wm. H. Barnum.

Messrs. STRONG, KELLOGG and STARKWEATHER, Republicans, and BARNUM, Democrat, comprise the present delegation, and they have all been renominated. Alderman PHELPS is a working man's candidate in the Second District.

The vote of the several Congressional Districts two years ago was as follows:

Dist.	Republican.	Democratic.	Majority.
1.	11,617	10,881	736 Rep.
2.	13,162	12,638	429 Rep.
3.	9,212	6,813	2,399 Rep.
4.	11,915	13,075	1,160 Dem.

The Hamilton Opera-House Drawing—How it was Done.

The Cincinnati papers give full particulars of the drawing of the Hamilton Opera-house lottery. A boy thirteen years of age was selected to draw the tickets from the wheel, and the drawing proceeded with the following result, the first number drawing the first prize, the second number the second prize, &c.: 28,889, 11,623, 30,020, 49, 17,763, 5,622, 10,376, 13,139, 11,738, 28,889, 28,376, 23,290, 24,146, 24,470, 18,035, 22,174, 30,397, 10,515, 5,746, 12,348, 11,889, 514, 18,951, 27,971, 25,590, 25,662, 20,041, 20,635, 5,135, 31,633, 24,989, 14,830, 1,761, 6,311, 27,679, 23,401, 9,068, 2,783

WASHINGTON.

Reconsideration of the Sundry Civil Service Bill—Numerous New Edifices Demolished—Organization of the Next House—Repeal of the Duty on Coal—Solution of the Arkansas Difficulties—Compensation to the Pacific Railroad.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. DAWES triumphed finally today on the Sundry Civil Service Appropriation bill. The House reconsidered the vote by which the bill was laid on the table, and then Mr. DAWES moved a substitute which left out all new buildings, except those already authorized by law. This was agreed to by 108 to 96, and the bill then passed—yeas 116, nays 80. The bill, as first reported, appropriated $38,500,000, but the House has stricken out upward of $6,500,000, so that as finally passed the bill appropriates but $25,000,000.

OFFICERS OF THE NEXT HOUSE.

The Republican caucus for the nomination of officers to organize the next House will be held in the hall of the House on Thursday night. There is very little excitement over the prospect. Speaker BLAINE and Mr. Clerk MCPHERSON and Mr. Door-keeper BUXTON will probably be renominated by acclamation. There is no contest save on the officers of Sergeant-at-Arms and Postmaster. On the former the present incumbent, Col. N. G. ORDWAY, who has given great satisfaction, has the inside track, and will probably keep it. His opponents are Col. STOKES, present member from Tennessee, and Gen. HERRON, of Louisiana, neither of whom is the right sort of man for the place. For Postmaster there are several candidates. W. H. KING, Esq., present incumbent, who is long-winded, and generally wins on the home-stretch; HENRY SHERWOOD, now assistant door-keeper, a fine, manly young soldier of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry; ALEX. H. JONES, a member from North Carolina, who goes out with this Congress, and wants an asylum, and a Mr. HAWKINS, of Ohio.

DINNERS TO HIGH OFFICIALS.

The members of the Joint High Commission dined with Sir EDWARD THORNTON to-night. The members of both branches will be entertained at dinner by Mr. FISH, to-morrow night, and on Saturday night Earl DE GRAY will entertain his colleagues on both sides at his residence.

REPEAL OF THE DUTY ON COAL.

Right in the middle of the reading of the Ku-Klux bill, this afternoon, FERNANDO WOOD sprang a motion to suspend the rules and pass a joint resolution repealing the duty on coal. It took like wildfire. The yeas and nays were ordered, but the resolution passed by the enormous vote of 142 to 45—over three to one. The Pennsylvania and Maryland protectionists looked blank enough, but they went down under the immense majority. Senators say it will pass their body without doubt; and whether the price is reduced or not, the coal famine will have produced one good effect.

CINCINNATI AND SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

The Kentucky Legislature having persistently refused to charter the Cincinnati and Southern Railway, leading from Cincinnati through Kentucky and Tennessee to Knoxville, the matter some time since came before Congress, and today the House passed, under suspension of the rules, a bill chartering the road. The Kentucky members, and some of the worshipers of States' Rights, opposed it seriously, but without avail. Many members voted for it to punish the Legislature, which has refused to charter the road because it is not tributary to Louisville. It will now hasten to do it in order to deprive Congress of the pleasure of completing its revenge.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The temper of the House, today, when Gen. LOGAN made his motion for a Conference Committee on the Southern Pacific Railroad bill, indicates that it will be no easy matter to agree upon a report that will command the approval of the House, if the bill of the House, which was substituted for that of the Senate, is departed from in any material manner. At the same time it is doubtful whether the Senate conferees can be induced to accept the House bill. By remaining firm on the ground assumed by Mr. WHEELER, Chairman of the Pacific Railroad Committee, it is in its power to compel the Senate to take its bill or nothing.

PROTECTION OF LIFE IN THE SOUTH.

Gen. BUTLER today reported his Kuklux bill, and asked for a suspension of the rules to make it the special order to take precedence of everything else except Appropriation bills and conference reports, but the House refused to suspend the rules, 127 to 65, only three votes lacking.

SALVATION OF THE ARKANSAS REPUBLICANS.

Gov. CLAYTON, of Arkansas, telegraphs here that in order to save the Republican Party in that State from disruption through the present troubles there, he has decided to resign his position as United States Senator elect.

THE M'GARRAGHAN CLAIM.

An attempt was made this morning, in the Senate, to take up the resolution of the House on the McGarrahan claim. Mr. SAWYER moved to postpone the Army Appropriation bill for the purpose, and the yeas and nays were taken, resulting in a defeat of the motion to postpone by 41 to 13. The question will inevitably go over to vex the incoming Congress.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Army Appropriation bill was taken up in the Senate after the morning hour. The amendments offered by the Committee on Appropriations were few and of minor importance in the favor of economy, and they were soon disposed of.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD CLAIMS.

The remainder of the afternoon session was taken up in considering a proposition to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad Company half of the transportation money retained in the Treasury, which Mr. STEWART offered as an amendment. Mr. EDMUNDS expressed the belief that the Secretary had acted in accordance with the law, and moved to lay the amendment on the table. The friends of the railroad voted this down by 28 to 19, which vote made it evident that the measure would be passed. The chief point of contention was a proviso offered by Mr. SHERMAN, which was intended to reserve the right of the Government, if it has any under existing law, to collect from the Company the interest on the bonds before the end of thirty years, when they mature, if meantime the Company becomes able to repay it. This was resisted by Mr. STEWART and some others, and failed by a majority of two. After the amendment offered by Mr. STEWART had been adopted, however, a proviso to secure the same end, but different in wording was put in the bill by a viva voce vote. The Senate seems inclined to help the Company as long as it needs help, but disinclined to give it more power than it has under the present law, to escape refunding the interest when it has reached a degree of prosperity warranting repayment.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has issued a circular stating that hereafter he will not assent to the holding, by an internal revenue officer, of any office or appointment under any State or municipal authority, or any other employment of such officer additional to his official duties, excepting so far as may be permitted to storekeepers under section 52 of the act of July 20, 1868.

CLAIMS OF SOUTHERNERS.

In the evening session of the Senate, as soon as the Army Appropriation bill came up, Mr. MCDONALD offered an amendment extending the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to the cases of all loyal citizens in the Southern States. A motion promptly made to lay it on the table was voted down by 31 to 13. Accordingly, the entire evening, till 10 o'clock, was spent in reiterating the stereotyped reconstruction speeches, although, of course, no vote was expected to be changed by them. All attempts of the Committee on Appropriations to secure a vote without delay were fruitless. Notwithstanding the apparent impossibility of getting through the Appropriation bills this session, and also acting on other propositions, amendments entirely irrelevant to appropriations keep pouring down on the Senate in showers. Almost a third of the Senate is away, and the Republican friends of this measure, in union with the Democrats have a small majority, and thus seem determined to make the most of their advantage. At 10 o'clock the opposers are trying to have the final vote put off till to-morrow, and there are no indications of the result.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT.

The President today approved and signed an act to amend an act, passed May 31, 1870, entitled "An Act to enforce the rights of citizens of the United States to vote in the several States of this Union and for other purposes;" also, the joint resolution to extend the benefit of the act establishing the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to disabled soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812 and of the Mexican War.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

There were on the Speaker's table, today, 190 bills and joint resolutions from the Senate. The House has passed all of its General Appropriation bills, six of which await the action of the Senate, namely, the Army, Navy, Fortification, Omnibus, Deficiency and River and Harbor Appropriation bills.

A TEXAS RAILROAD CASE.

In the case of CAMPBELL vs. The Texas and New-Orleans Railroad Company, MORAN, and others, Mr. Justice BRADLEY, in Chambers today, reviewed the law and the evidence and refused to dissolve the injunction. The opinion virtually establishes that the bonds of 1861 have a priority over the bonds of 1858, as to the forty miles of railroad between Liberty and Houston. The seventy miles between Orange and Liberty will be sold separately. The equities as to the forty miles between Liberty and Houston, and as to the land certificate, will be adjusted before there is any sale as to these. PASCHAL and SESSIONS for complainants; HALE and EVARTS for MORAN.

ARRIVAL OF JUDGE HOAR.

Judge HOAR, of the Joint High Commission, arrived here to-night.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The following comparative statement shows the internal revenue receipts for the first eight months of the years 1870 and 1871:

From July 1, 1869, to Feb. 28, 1870	$111,154,929 92

Fractional currency, fourth issue	22,102,506 31
Total	$398,891,466 18

NOMINATIONS.

The President sent to the Senate today the following nominations:

John R. Miller, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Tennessee; Jas. B. Rothschild, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth District of Ohio; Jas. E. Marsh, Surveyor of Customs at Kansas City, Mo.

Postmasters—Ambrose B. Gaines, at Dedham, Mass.; E. S. Merrill, at Winchendon, Mass.; M. S. Havrestink, at Shabbona, Ill.; Albert Bowers, at Shelburne Falls, Mass.; C. S. Coburn, at Leominster, Mass.; Jos. F. Hodges, at Foxboro, Mass.; R. E. Bowen, Willbury, Mass.; Mrs. Hannah F. Lowe, at Xenia, Ohio; Mrs. Rebecca Adams, at Fort Madison, Iowa; Israel Howell, at Trenton, N. J.; Henry A. Green, at Jersey City, N. J.; David A. Allen, at Brenham, Texas; Smith B. Young, at Rosse, Texas; Oliver C. Easton, at Havana, Ill.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The Senate in Executive Session today confirmed the following nominations:

Henry D. Cooke, of Georgetown, D. C., to be Governor of the District of Columbia; Jerome B. Brigham, Appraiser of Merchandise at Milwaukee; James E. Woodward, Collector of Customs at Kansas City; Robert W. Healey, United States Marshal of the Southern District of Alabama; James H. Coggeshall, United States Marshal for the District of Rhode Island; Israel Howell, Postmaster at Trenton, N. J.; George L. Andrews, of Massachusetts, to be Professor of the French language at the Military Academy.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

THIRD SESSION.

SENATE...WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Feb. 28.

CREDENTIALS.

The Vice-President laid before the Senate the credentials of JOHN A. LOGAN as Senator from the State of Illinois for six years from March 4. The credentials of PHINEAS T. HITCHCOCK, as Senator from Nebraska for the ensuing term, were presented by Mr. TIPTON, read, and ordered to be filed.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEES.

The Vice-President announced the appointment of the following Committees of Conference: On the Indian Appropriation bill, Messrs. COLE, POMEROY, and STOCKTON; on the Legislative Appropriation bill, Messrs. SAWYER, TRUMBULL, and BAYARD.

RIVER AND HARBOR APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. CHANDLER, of Michigan, from the Committee on Commerce, reported, with amendments, the River and Harbor Appropriation bill.

DUPLICATION OF REGISTERED BONDS.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, called up the House bill to authorize the duplication of registered bonds in certain cases. Passed.

A large number of Pension bills were passed.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Mr. CONKLING, of New-York, called up the bill to prevent cruelty to animals while in transit by railroad or other means of transportation, within the United States. He said Mr. BERGH, of the New-York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, desired a more stringent measure, but deferred to the opinions of the friends of the bill.

Mr. HAMILTON, of Maryland, said that while he was in favor of all humanitarian projects, he knew that these were too often made to further private interests. His main objection to the bill was that it involved an arbitrary and unauthorized stretch of power on the part of the Federal Government.

Mr. TIPTON, of Nebraska, thought the matter should be left to State legislation and to regulations of private parties interested in the transfer and raising of stock.

Mr. SAULSBURY, of Delaware, suggested an amendment, which created general merriment, making it unlawful, under penalties of fine and imprisonment, to confine chickens or fowls in any house or other place of confinement for a longer period than twenty-eight consecutive hours.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, thought the amendment, for all practicable purposes, about as sensible as the original proposition.

Upon the expiration of the morning hour, Mr. CONKLING made an unsuccessful effort to reach a vote upon the bill.

Mr. DAVIS announced that, if proceeded with, the bill would be debated at length.

ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Army Appropriation bill then came up as the unfinished business, when Mr. SAWYER, of South Carolina, moved its postponement in order to take up the House bill relating to the Panoche land grant, or "McGarrahan Claim." Not agreed to by yeas 13, nays 41.

The Army Appropriation bill was then proceeded with, and the amendments reported from the Committee on Appropriations adopted. The only one of importance was one reducing the appropriation for the line officers' quarters; of military store-houses, and for repairing public buildings at established posts from $1,000,000 to $750,000.

A number of amendments to the bill were laid on the table, including one by Mr. SAULSBURY, of Delaware, prohibiting the use of any of the money appropriated by the bill to pay the expenses of the transportation of any officer or soldier to or from a place of election.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported and advocated an amendment appropriating $200,000 for making and testing a sea-coast rifle-gun upon a plan recommended by a Board of Army Officers and approved by the Chief of Ordnance and Secretary of War. Tabled.

Mr. STEWART, of Nevada, offered an amendment reciting the meaning of the fifth section of the act of July 2, 1864, and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the Pacific Railroad Company one-half of all the compensation for services which have been or shall be rendered by either of said Pacific Railroad Companies for the United States. Mr. STEWART said he reported an amendment from the Judiciary Committee by their direction.

Mr. EDMUNDS, of Vermont, a member of the Judiciary Committee, denied that the Committee had ever considered the amendment, and appealed to Mr. TRUMBULL, of Illinois, Chairman of the Committee, who indorsed the statement, but added that the Senator from Nevada (Mr. STEWART) had called his attention to the subject on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. STEWART remarked that he had personally obtained the assent of a majority of the Committee to the offering of the amendment.

After further discussion, Mr. EDMUNDS moved to lay the amendment on the table, which was not agreed to—yeas 19, nays 28.

The amendment was then discussed, Mr. EDMUNDS opposing it as involving the surrender of a right which seemed to him to exist in the statute of 1864.

The liability of the companies to pay over the $5,000 to $10,000; increasing the appropriation for the survey of the Western Coast from $200,000 to $240,000; appropriating $175,000 for continuing the survey of the Northern and North-western Lakes, and the appropriations for the New-York and Boston Post-offices.

The question was first taken on Mr. AMBLER'S motion to strike out the appropriation for Lexington Island Navy-yard.

The appropriation was not struck out—yeas 91, nays 104.

The substitute was then agreed to—yeas 108, nays 98.

The bill was then passed—yeas 112, nays 73.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. LOGAN, of Illinois, moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House agree to the Southern Pacific Railroad bill.

Mr. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, preferred that the House should insist on its amendments to the bill, by which the Senate land grant of 26,000,000 of acres was reduced to 13,000,000.

Mr. LOGAN said that he, too, much preferred the House bill to the Senate bill, and had so voted, but that it was certainly an act of courtesy on the part of the House to agree to the conference asked by the Senate.

Mr. RANDALL—"Does the gentleman think that it is an act of courtesy on our part to give away an additional 13,000,000 of acres of the public lands?"

Mr. LOGAN—"That is not the question. The only question is whether the House will accept a Committee of Conference. My own opinion is that that is the only way that the bill can be got through at this session. I think that the Senate is perhaps as fixed in its opinion as the House is in its own, and that there should be some kind of comity between the two Houses. My own notion is that it is better for those interested in the bill, and who desire its passage, to have a Committee of Conference than to take any other position at this time."

Mr. BANKS, of Massachusetts, said there would be no objection to the course proposed by Mr. RANDALL, if there were time to carry it into effect; but there was not time to get a return from the Senate on the question of its receding from its disagreement to the House amendments.

Mr. RANDALL—It will not take more than five minutes—just as long as it will take the Clerk to walk over to the Senate Chamber.

Mr. BANKS—But the Senate would have to act on it.

Mr. RANDALL—Let us make a struggle to keep the land grant down to thirteen million acres, instead of twenty-six millions.

Mr. BANKS—We have entire control of the question, I understand, as the gentleman does, that the House is not disposed to take the Senate bill. The Committee of Conference will be governed by the views of the House, and the House will have the power to control the action of the Committee. For myself, I feel free to say that there is no expectation whatever that the Senate bill will be passed by the House.

Mr. RANDALL—I prefer to keep the bill where it will require a two-thirds vote to get it at.

Mr. BANKS—That is, to defeat the bill.

Mr. MAYNARD, of Tennessee—Perhaps the gentleman would prefer to keep the bill out altogether.

Mr. RANDALL—I do; but I know that its passage is inevitable, and I prefer it to pass in the shape of a grant of thirteen million acres, rather than of twenty-six millions. My object is to keep the House bill as it is.

The vote was taken and the rules were suspended and a Conference Committee ordered—yeas 136, nays 59.

CINCINNATI AND SOUTHERN RAILROAD.

Mr. INGERSOLL, of Illinois, asked leave to make a statement, to be followed by a motion to suspend the rules and pass a bill to promote the construction of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad.

Mr. WINCHESTER, of Kentucky, objected.

Mr. INGERSOLL offered to allow Mr. WINCHESTER five minutes to reply to his statements, for which he asked only five minutes.

Mr. WINCHESTER—I do not want five minutes. I object.

Mr. INGERSOLL—Very well; I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill; there is no subsidy in it; there is no land grant in it. It simply gives the right to citizens of Kentucky to build a road across the State of Kentucky.

Mr. BECK, of Kentucky—That is not the fact.

Mr. INGERSOLL—Every county in the State of Kentucky through which the road passes asks that this legislation be had.

Mr. STEVENSON, of Ohio—The whole Union, north and south of Kentucky, wants the right to pass through that State, and she refuses that right.

The bill was read in full and then the rules were suspended and the bill passed—yeas 131, nays 62.

NO WAY TO DO BUSINESS.

Mr. SARGENT, of California, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the House proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, debate to be confined to speeches of five minutes, and that if at the end of the second speech the previous question be not seconded, the pending bill shall be laid aside.

Mr. KELLEY, of Pennsylvania, offered the following as a substitute:

Resolved, That at 12 o'clock to-morrow the House will proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, under the following restrictions: As each bill is reached, a debate of five minutes, pro and con, will be allowed, and also one amendment. If the House shall then refuse to second the previous question, the bill shall be laid aside, retaining its place on the Speaker's table, and no dilatory motion of any kind shall be entertained, nor shall a motion to adjourn be in order before 4½ o'clock P. M.

Mr. SARGENT accepted Mr. KELLY'S resolution as a substitute for his own.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, said that that was no way to do business. They might as well propose to pass by one vote all the bills on the Speaker's table.

The resolution was rejected, there being only forty-eight votes in its favor.

PROTECTION OF LOYAL CITIZENS.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, from the Reconstruction Committee reported the bill to protect the loyal and peaceable citizens of the United States in the full and free enjoyment of their rights of personal liberty and prosperity, and to enable such citizens to preserve and perpetuate the evidences of losses claimed to have been sustained by them in the war in the States lately in rebellion.

Mr. COX, of New-York, moved that the bill be rejected. Negatived.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, moved to suspend the rules, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the bill to protect loyal and peaceable citizens of the United States, and that the further reading of the bill be proceeded with to the exclusion of all other business except appropriation bills and conference reports until finally disposed of.

Negatived—yeas 127, nays 65; not two-thirds in the affirmative.

Three Republicans voted in the negative—Messrs. FARNSWORTH, FITCH, and WILKINSON. A change of one of these votes would have given the requisite two-thirds majority.

REPEAL OF DUTIES ON COAL.

While the foregoing bill was being read, Mr. WOOD, of New-York, took the floor, and moved that the rules be suspended, and the bill passed repealing all laws and parts of laws imposing a duty on foreign coal, the bill to take effect immediately.

The rules were suspended and the bill passed—yeas 144, nays 45, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Adams, Allison, Asper, Atwood, Axtell, Bailey, Banks, Barnum, Barry, Beaman, Beatty, Beck, Bennett, Benton, Bethune, Biggs, Bird, Brooks of Massachusetts, Brooks of New-York, Buckley, Buffinton, Butler of Tennessee, Calkin, Churchill, Clark of Tennessee, Clarke of Kansas, Cobb of Wisconsin, Coburn, Conger, Conner, Cook, Corker, Crebs, Cox, Cullom, Darrell, Dawes, Degener, Dickinson, Dixon, Dockery, Dox, Duke, Ela, Farnsworth, Ferry, Finkelnburg, Fisher, Fitch, Garfield, Griswold, Haight, Haldeman, Hale, Hamilton of Florida, Hawley, Hay, Hays, Hedin, Hill, Hoar, Hoge, Holman, Holmes, Hotchkiss, Ingersoll, Jenckes, Johnson, Jones of Kentucky, Judd, Julian, Kellogg of Connecticut, Kerr, Ketcham, Knapp, Ladin, Lash, Lawrence, Lewis, Logan, Long, Lynch, Maghee, Lynde, Manning, Marshall, Mayham, McCormick, McCrary, McNeely, Moore of Illinois, Morey, Morgan, Morrill of Maine, Mungen, Niblack, Orth, Packard of Indiana, Paine, Palmer, Peck, Peiroy, Peters, Price, Ramey, Reeves, Rice, Sargent, Schumaker, Shanks, Sheldon of Louisiana, Sheldon of New-York, Shober, Slocum, Smith of Ohio, Smith of Oregon, Smith of Vermont, Starkweather, Stevens, Stevenson, Stone, Stoughton, Strong, Sypher, Taffe, Tanner, Trimble, Twichell, Tyner, Upson, Van Auken, Van Trump, Ward, Washburn of Wisconsin, Washburn of Massachusetts, Welker, Wells, Whiteley, Willard, Williams, Wilmans, Winchester, Wolf, Wood, Young—144.

NAYS—Messrs. Ambler, Archer, Armstrong, Ayer, Blair, Boles, Booker, Burdett, Cessna, Cobb of North Carolina, Dickey, Donley, Duval, Geis, Gilfillan, Hambleton of Maryland, Hamill, Kelley of Pennsylvania, Maynard, McCarthy, McGrew, McKenzie, Mercer, Moore of New-Jersey, Morphis, Morrell of Pennsylvania, Myers, Negley, O'Neill, Packer of Pennsylvania, Phelps, Platt, Porter, Prosser, Randall, Scofield, Smith of Tennessee, Stiles, Stokes, Strickland, Swann, Taylor, Tillman, Townsend, Wallace, Wilson of Ohio—45.

EXPEDITING BUSINESS.

The Speaker insisted that instead of imposing on him the responsibility of discriminating between members who desire the floor to move to suspend the rules and take certain bills from the Speaker's table, the House should go to the Speaker's table and go through with the bills on it, passing those to which there is no objection, and allowing motions to suspend the rules for the passage of such bills as are objected to. He would only do so by unanimous consent.

Unanimous consent was given, and the Speaker announced that he would commence at 12 o'clock to-morrow, and that the calendar shall first be gone through with, so as to pass all bills not objected to.

REFORMING BAD HABITS.

On motion of Mr. TWITCHELL, of Massachusetts, an additional rule was adopted prohibiting smoking in the hall or galleries, the Speaker having stated that there was no such rule now existing.

The House then at 5:10 adjourned.

OBITUARY.

Wm. A. Budd.

Mr. WM. A. BUDD, well known in the business circles of this City as an active and enterprising merchant, and an upright and generous man, died at his residence in West Thirty-third-street, on Monday last. He was born in 1810, and began his mercantile career as a clerk in the cloth establishment of THOMAS HUNT & Co., in 1830. On a reorganization of the firm in 1850, under the name of WILSON G. HUNT & Co., Mr. BUDD became a partner. The concern has changed twice since that time, Mr. BUDD advancing in the firm with each change. By his death the City loses another of its old and substantial merchants—one of those who have achieved their success by a steady and honorable devotion to business.

COAL FACTS YESTERDAY.

Affairs With the Capitalists—Interesting Statistics—The Middle Men's Council—Condition of the Markets.

The public mind yesterday appeared to have become more quiet in relation to the coal question. This condition, however, was by no means the result of any encouraging tidings received from the mining districts, but a confidence in the expectation that some prompt and effectual remedy would be forced by public demands, unless the contestants soon came to terms among themselves. The news of the action of Congress in removing the duty from foreign coal was hailed with general satisfaction.

Very little communication was had with the miners, and the entire matter of adjustment seems given over to the committees in charge. Some of the miners are said to be on the very verge of starvation, and are as ready to rebel against the tyranny of the Union, as they are to condemn their supposed oppressors, the mining companies. It is alleged that measures are now in progress to place green men at work unless the miners will resume operations at the offered terms. Military aid will be demanded in case of any riotous demonstrations. Application to this end has already been made, but as it must pass through the Sheriff's officers, and those worthies are mere puppets in the hands of the voting miners, there has been merely dalliance without progress. The coal and railroad companies are both feeling the necessity of prompt and decisive action, and declare that the protection of the State will be secured for new non-union laborers. The Governor of Pennsylvania is said to have expressed himself ready to use all his power as soon as circumstances warrant. These rumors have passed among the miners, who feel anything but kindly in the matter, but it is not believed that they will resist the law when the Governor shall make his proclamation.

INTERESTING FACTS AND STATISTICS.

The same feeling prevails that was expressed after the last interview of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Union Committee with Mr. STORRS at Scranton. They continue to demand the November prices, and reject every other basis. They will not resume work at the proffered eighty-six cents. It is believed that the companies would readily give $1 per car for the mining, if it were not such an awkward retreat from their determined position. They profess that they mean to make a break into the Miners' Union combination. The miners, however inclined to disaffection with their leaders, are a unit against any concession to the companies' last proposals. Consequently there is a prospect of a deadlock for an indefinite period. The following table of prices paid by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company during the past five years, will be read with interest:

Months.	Years.	Per Diamond car.
July	1866	$1 15
November	1866	1 00
February	1867	85
May	1867	75
February	1868	70
May	1868	85
September	1868	90
November	1868	1 00
January	1869	1 25
August	1869	1 35
December	1870	85

THE MIDDLE-MEN'S COUNCIL.

The middle-men met in council, yesterday, in Trinity Building. The proceedings were quite informal, and related principally to their private transactions. The effect of the expected act of Congress, removing the duty on foreign coals, was a topic considerably discussed. The introduction of soft coal, in large quantities, at low rates, was decided to have a transforming influence upon their trade. Much less stove and furnace coal would be used, more grate fires and steam pipe heaters would supplant the other methods now in use, and many of the steamers and factories would substitute soft coal altogether. The Union Ferry, and other steamers, always use bituminous coal as soon as anthracite advances beyond a certain price, and might substitute it altogether.

THE CONDITION OF THE MARKET.

Arrivals of coal by rail and water yesterday added several thousand tons to the stock, but not sufficient to meet all the accumulated orders. The prices afloat varied, according to quality, from $8 to $10 50. Cumberland coal sells readily, afloat, at $8. Quantities have been ordered, and will probably arrive by the first of next week. The demand for it has greatly increased. The retailers complain of a dullness in their trade, and think that consumers have adopted the most rigid economy. All sorts of prices are asked. Chestnut-sized coal is almost out of market.

In Westchester County the prices are from $10 to $12 50; in Orange County, $12; in Dutchess County, $10 to $12; on Long Island, Staten Island, and interior towns near by this City, the prices will average $12 to $13 per ton, and the supply is short. Altogether, the situation is more hopeful. The people seem trained to meet the siege. The weather must gradually moderate, and the sufferings of the poor be greatly abated. With economy, patience and good management the crisis may be easily overcome, and possibly benefit eventually accrue to all.

Schuylkill Situation Unchanged—The Operaters Determined to Crush the Miners—Apprehensions of Violence—An Advance of Tolls on the Northern Central.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Feb. 28.—The situation remains unchanged in the Schuylkill region. The miners are very quiet and orderly. Much interest is manifested as to the result of the meeting of miners to be held at Mahanoy City to-morrow. A general feeling prevails that they will accept the basis adopted by the Philadelphia meeting from sheer necessity. Especially is this the case in this region where the miners were so badly prepared for the present strike. Citizens who have resided here for many years, and men interested in the production of coal, state that it is a perfect mystery to them how the men can hold out, and that it is impossible for them to continue the strike much longer. The stores throughout the region have but a small stock on hand and will not sell on credit. The operators and carrying companies are determined to crush the organization, which consists of many thousand men, governed, it is alleged, by a few unprincipled and irresponsible leaders, who have nothing at stake. No reports of violence or outrages committed by the miners have been received today. The Reading Railroad Company is still taking extra precautions to have their road and bridges well guarded. Information has been received from the Shamokin region that the Northern Central Railroad, in conjunction with other carrying companies, have advanced their tolls. This action will certainly compel an entire suspension of mining in that region. Eleven hundred cars were sent there today to be loaded and sent to market. These cars will take away every pound of coal mined for the Eastern market, previous to the advance, which takes effect to-morrow.

Meeting of the Pittston Miners—They Refuse to Mine by the Car—The Wilkesbarre Miners Adjourn to March 7.

PITTSTON, Penn., Feb. 28.—At a meeting of the Pennsylvania Coal Company miners, at Pittston, Feb. 27, they refused to accept the terms offered by the Company to mine by the car, and insisted on mining by the ton as heretofore, at prices in the same proportion as paid by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Feb. 28.—The miners met here this morning and adjourned until March 7, without transacting any business.

A GRAND CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The Tammany Republicans Organize a Grand Club.

A meeting of the Grand Central Committee (Tammany Republicans) was held last evening at the corner of Fifth-avenue and Twenty-first-street, ANDREW W. LEGGETT, presiding, and JOHN A. STANSBURY, Secretary, pro tem. Mr. DANIEL D. CONOVER, submitted the report of the Committee on By-laws, and proposed that the sections should be considered seriatim. This was adopted, and the President proceeded to read the sections, which were generally adopted. The organization is to be known as the "Grand Central Republican Committee," and the object is to "secure the re-election of Gen. GRANT to the Presidency." The regular meetings are to be held on the second Tuesday in each month. After the reading, the by-laws were adopted as a whole, and ordered printed in pamphlet form.

A member inquired what was to be done in case there was more than one club in a district. Mr. CONOVER stated that it made no difference how many clubs there were in a district, as all could be represented. He moved that the election of additional Vice-Presidents take place at the regular meeting on the second Tuesday in March. The President stated that the Presidents of the various clubs throughout the City were entitled to be present ex officio members of this organization. The credentials of the delegates were directed to be sent to A. G. BULLOCK, Corresponding Secretary, at his residence, No. 771 Seventh-avenue. The meeting then adjourned.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Ten Persons Severely Injured by an Explosion.

Two Large Factories Completely Destroyed.

Loss $80,000—The New-York Circus in Danger—The Audience Quietly Dismissed—Firemen Injured by the Falling of a Wall.

About 8 o'clock last night flames were discovered in the carpenter-shop situated in the rear extension building of MINER & STEVENS' carriage manufactory, a four-story brick building, comprising Nos. 115, 117, 119 and 121 East Thirteenth-street. An alarm was speedily given and quickly answered by the firemen. The fire had, however, gained such headway, owing to the inflammable materials, that the firemen found it difficult to master the element, so a second alarm was given, bringing on the ground a fresh force of engines, as well as Chief Engineer PARSLEY and District Engineers BRANDON, BATES, SULLIVAN, SHEA and EDGE.

Despite this additional force the flames spread rapidly, and finally destroyed the entire range of buildings occupied by MINER & STEVENS, together with a large quantity of raw material and carriages, as the crowd of spectators were at first so badly managed by the Police, that the efforts of the firemen were much impeded. The loss sustained by the firm is estimated at $80,000, only partially insured for $27,000 in City companies.

The flames also extended to the carriage factory of MICHAEL CURLY, also a four-story brick building, Nos. 109, 111 and 113, but their progress was checked with a loss to the firm of $3,000 on stock, covered by the following insurances: Williamsburg City, Astor, Lennox, Firemens', Mech. Importers' and Traders', Adriatic, Grocers' and the Rebel for $2,000 each, the National for $1,000, the Metropolitan and the Citizens' for $1,500 each, and the Merchants' for $1,500.

The fire also damaged the rear building of No. 113 West Fourteenth-street, occupied by SCHULTZ & WALKER, the mineral water manufacturers, as a stable and tin shop, causing a loss to the firm of $5,000 on stock and machinery.

All of these several buildings are owned by Mr. M. GROSE, ivory-dealer in Fulton-street, who sustains a collective loss of about $40,000, understood to be fully insured.

While the firemen, insurance patrolmen and some citizens were busily engaged in removing the rolling stock of MINER & STEVENS, some barrels of turpentine or other inflammable material caught fire and exploded, severely injuring and burning the following persons:

JAMES WARING, of No. 212 Sixth-street, cuts, bruises and burns on face and hands.

JOHN BOYCE, insurance patrolman, of No. 184 Clinton-street, terribly burned on hands and face, probably fatally.

H. A. ADAMS, insurance patrolman, of Sixty-fifth-street and Avenue A, hands and face.

MICHAEL CARROLL, fireman, of No. 143 Fourth-avenue, severely burned on head and face.

FRANCIS HUDDLEY, of No. 105 Christopher-street, and a member of No. 3 Truck, who happened to have the hose-pipe near the scene of the explosion, was also terribly burned by the explosion, besides being found beneath the wreck, and many of the steamers and factories would substitute soft coal altogether. The Union Ferry, and other steamers, always use bituminous coal as soon as anthracite advances beyond a certain price, and might substitute it altogether.

All of these men were taken in charge by their friends and comrades and removed in carriages to their respective homes while the fire was at its height in the rear wall of the extension of MINER & STEVENS' factory suddenly and unexpectedly fell. At that moment the hose men of Engine Company No. 18 were standing on a pile of lumber, playing their streams in the flames, and the following men were injured by the falling and heated bricks:

JAMES RYNDERS, fireman, of No. 35 Greenwich-avenue, four ankles fractured, and severely injured on the face; sent to hospital.

CLINTON MCDONALD, foreman of the company, and WM. S. CAPT, seriously hurt on their heads and legs by bricks.

The new four-story building is situated directly in rear of the carriage factories, but Messrs. LEE & AUSTIN, the managers, became satisfied that there was no danger to their iron tent, so they reassured the audience of 500 or 600 persons assembled, and proceeded with the evening's entertainment. When the wall of the rear building fell, however, the circus audience became nervous on account of the noise of the explosion and fall of bricks, many persons quietly deciding to go away, leaving in a very quick manner. Sergt. ROBBINS, of the Fifteenth Precinct, visited the scene in rear of the circus at the same time, and as the flames were still apparently unabdused, he decided to remove the audience, so he stopped the performance, and with the aid of his men and the circus people superintended the departure of the spectators, who were thus kept under control, and the occurrence of any serious panic admirably prevented. The scenes in and about the circus building and those on fire were naturally exciting; but a sufficient force of Police having arrived, no disturbance or casualties occurred beyond those already recorded. While Sergt. ROBBINS was sending the circus audience into the street, Roundsman SCHULTZ, of the Eighteenth Precinct, discovered that the falling walls had greatly endangered the stables; so he assumed control of the stablemen, and with a force of police, removed some forty horses and ponies through the side yard into Fourteenth-street, the scene, at the moment, recalling those occurring at the time the Academy of Music was destroyed. Mr. LENT, the circus manager, sustained only slight loss by the fire. The origin of the flames is at present unknown.

Other Fires.

A fire broke out, last evening, in the wool manufactory of DAVID & HARRINGTON, Nos. 525 and 527 West Thirty-eighth-street, the flames being caused by the roof catching fire from the heater used to dry the raw wool. Damage to stock, $2,500; no insurance. The firm also own the building, and sustain a loss of $500, covered by insurance. The flames extended to the stable of NOAH A. CHILDS, who sustained a loss of $500; fully insured.

At 6¾ o'clock last evening a fire occurred on the third floor of No. 459

BASE-BALL.

Approaching Inauguration of the Season—The Base-Ball Conference of March.

It will be but a few weeks hence when the ball-fields of the Metropolis will again become the scene of the interesting contests of the base-ball season, and the promise is that we are to have the most exciting trials of skill on record in all the principal cities of the Union. Before the present month expires we shall no doubt have recorded the first match of the season, unless the weather should prove unusually unpropitious. During 1869, the first game played occurred March 24, and for several seasons opening games have been played on the hard, gravelly field of the old Star Grounds, located in the rear of Carroll Park, South Brooklyn, in March. Indeed, a Brooklyn paper announces that a game is to be played there next Saturday afternoon, if the weather is mild enough.

Among the interesting occurrences in base-ball which are to take place this month may be named the convention of delegates from the professional clubs of the country, which is announced to be held in this City, on the 17th of this month. This convention originated from a call of the Secretary of the Olympic Club, of Washington, who desired that the Secretaries of the principal professional clubs should meet in New-York on the day named, to arrange the date of their matches for the entire season. In accepting the proposition, it was suggested by the Secretary of the Chicago Club that the meeting in question discuss other questions affecting the interests of the professional class, and this meeting with general favor, the third proposition was made, viz., to form the meeting into a Convention of the Professional Clubs, and this is likely to be the result of the gathering. At present, there is no authorized code of rules governing championship contests, and a code is greatly needed. Moreover, it is desirable that some arrangement be made by which the disputes over the selection of umpires may be avoided. The discussion of these and other interesting questions will make the Convention quite an important one. It is to be hoped that it will not culminate in such a farce as the Convention of November last.

Another event of equal interest, but to another class of the fraternity, is the Convention of delegates from the amateur clubs of the country, which is to be held at the Excelsior Club Rooms, in Brooklyn, on the 16th of March. The objects in view in calling this Convention are to organize a national association, composed entirely of amateur clubs, viz.: Of clubs which engage in the game for recreative exercise only, and not for gate money, receipts or for pecuniary benefit only; and also to arrange a code of playing rules for amateur clubs only, in which all countenancing of playing base-ball for money shall be repudiated. The initiatory movement was made by the Excelsior Club of Brooklyn, and it is indorsed and aided by the veteran Knickerbocker Club of this City, these two Clubs possessing the highest social status of any ball clubs in the country, besides being among the oldest and wealthiest. It will be seen, therefore, that the present month is pregnant with events of deep interest and importance to the fraternity at large.

THE PROFESSIONAL NINES OF 1871.

Though all the professional clubs of the country have not as yet completed the organization of their nines, the majority have, and for the information of our readers we give the names and positions of the players of the Clubs which have completed their nines for 1871:

The Forest City Club of Cleveland, having lost HUEBEL, have to get one man. The Forest City Club of Rockford, have to raise a new nine. The Kekiongas, of Fort Wayne, have but five men as yet, and the Eckfords and Atlantics are yet in an unorganized condition. By the close of March, however, no doubt all will be ready.

WAITING FOR DEATH

The Murderer Thomas—His Condition—The Coming Execution.

JOHN THOMAS, the colored man who is under sentence of death for the murder of WALTER JOHNSON, another colored man, was officially notified yesterday that the Supreme Court had decided adversely to the petition of his counsel demanding a new trial. It will be remembered that THOMAS was on his conviction sentenced to be hanged on the 17th ult., but his counsel, Mr. GOODLEY, succeeded in procuring a respite of three weeks from Gov. HOFFMAN, in order that he might argue certain points of law before the Supreme Court in support of his motion for a new trial. As the new trial has been denied, the condemned will be executed on the 20th inst.

The prisoner had conducted himself in a cool and collected manner ever since his conviction, and prior to the reprieve granted by the Governor seemed to have no hopes of an escape from the gallows. He has, however, had his hopes excited by the chance given his counsel, so that the adverse decision has naturally acted in a depressing manner on his spirits. THOMAS yesterday seemed to be stunned by his fate, though he expressed himself resigned to the will of God. He does not court the attention of visitors, and has given up his former colloquial habits, so that those anxious to extract any matters of interest from him signally fail in their efforts. THOMAS' mother having been a Roman Catholic, her son has requested the good offices of the priests of that church, two of whom frequently visit him in his cell. The Sisters of Mercy also aid in the good work of preparing a human soul for eternity, and the condemned man follows their words in a child-like manner, that contrasts strongly with the ferocity of his crime.

Warden STACOM will have custody of the condemned until to-morrow night, when the Sheriff's deputies will assume charge of the prisoner's person and retain it until the sentence of the law has been carried into effect. Hereafter no persons will be permitted to see THOMAS except when he expresses a desire to see them.

The Custom-House General Order Business.

It will be seen by the following extract from the Warehouse act of Aug. 6, 1846, that the Secretary of the Treasury is powerless to order the restoration of the general-order business to the Cunard, Hamburg and Bremen Companies. The law expressly gives to the Collector the authority to designate general-order stores, and he may contract or extend the number of these warehouses at pleasure. The section is as follows:

"Provided that in all cases of failure or neglect to pay the duties within the period allowed by law to the importer to make entry thereof, or whenever the owner, importer, or consignee shall make entry for warehousing the same in writing, in such form and supported by such proofs as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, the said goods, wares and merchandise shall be taken possession of by the Collector, and deposited in the public stores, or in other stores to be agreed on by the Collector, or chief revenue officer of the port, and the importer, owner or consignee of the said stores to be secured in the manner provided for by the act of April 20, 1818, &c."

The owners of the stores,—the agents of the various lines,—have heretofore refused to permit their stores to be bonded as other stores are, and until they do the Collector will doubtless refuse to restore the general order business to them, unless the Secretary peremptorily directs this to be done, which it is not probable he will do, as if he should, his action would relieve the Collector from the obligations of his official bond.

Criminals Before Judge Woodruff.

The criminal proceedings at the United States Circuit Court, before Judge WOODRUFF, yesterday, included two trials and one conviction by plea. Three sailors named PETER JOHNSON, CHARLES PETERSON and CHARLES THOMPSON were arraigned on a charge of creating a revolt on board of the ship Montague, off Governor's Island, on the 8th of December last. The testimony showed that the vessel was about sailing at the time of the occurrence, and that the seamen became intoxicated and disorderly. A disturbance occurred, during which one of the crew named SMITH was cut down and killed with a cutlass in the hands of JAMES WRIGHT, the second mate, who has since been held for murder. The accused were shown to be the ringleaders of the revolt. GEORGE HALL and JAMES WRIGHT were called as witnesses for the prosecution, and WILLIAM BISHOP appeared for the Government. The trial concluded with a verdict of guilty and a recommendation to mercy. The prisoners were subsequently remanded for sentence.

WILLIAM GUIRK pleaded guilty on an indictment in which he was charged with violating the Congressional Election law by fraudulently voting at Yonkers at the last election. He was also remanded.

JOSEPH HARTRETT was arraigned for having, as alleged, embezzled letters while acting as a mail-carrier at the Yorkville station. It appeared that BERTHA APLES complained to the Post-office authorities that she had not received several letters which had been directed to her at various times. The accused was suspected, and decoy letters were prepared in order to detect him. On being arrested he was found in possession of the decoy letters, together with sixteen others which were unopened and which were not addressed to places along his route. It was supposed that he had taken them from another carrier's box. JAMES GAYLOR special agent of the Post-office Department, Col. B. T. MORGAN, and Wm. CLARK were among those who gave evidence for the prosecution, and Alderman JOHN D. OTTIWELL and RICHARD DALTON were called for the defense. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. Assistant District-Attorney PURDY conducted the trial for the Government. Hartrett was remanded for sentence, after which the Court adjourned until this morning.

Recorder Hackett's Pistol Practice Found Useful in Deciding a Question of Fact.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, JOHN CLARKE was arraigned upon an indictment charging him with snapping a loaded pistol at FRANCIS GOODALL, with intent to kill him. The complainant resides on Twenty-fourth-street, adjoining the Grand Opera-house. On the evening of the 7th of December, at about 9 o'clock, complainant discovered the accused upon the roof of the show-window, peering into the Opera-house window. CLARKE pretended to be drunk, jumped down on the ground, (only a few feet beneath,) and snapped the pistol at GOODALL. An Erie watchman, named SISSON, then came up and arrested him. The weapon, a revolver, when taken from him, was found to be loaded with six cartridges, one chamber being empty. The prosecution claimed that the hammer was snapped upon one of the loaded chambers. This was denied by the defense. Recorder HACKETT could not believe this to be the case, unless there was an indentation left upon the cartridge, and to test the matter sent a deputation into the cellar to discharge one of the chambers. The exploded cartridge was then examined by the Court and jury, and the Recorder's opinion was sustained. The accused was convicted of attempting to inflict bodily harm, and sentenced to four years' hard labor in the State Prison.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Yesterday, (Feb. 28,) at the Exchange, was decidedly the most interesting day thus far of the season, both in the character of the transactions effected, the class of property offered, prices realized, attendance of buyers' presence, and in other particulars which have a tendency to create activity. At the opening hour for business, 12 M., nine auctioneers occupied stands, and the Exchange for an hour presented an old-time air. A few more such exhibitions of interest as that of yesterday cannot fail to exert a beneficial effect upon the market generally. Most of the property offered was sold to bona fide purchasers, and the greater portion of it brought good figures. The following is a review of the day's business in brief, for as the sales to take place were noticed in detail on Monday it is unnecessary to again particularly describe the property, besides the exact size and location of each lot disposed of, together with the name of purchasers and price realized, will be found in the summary of sales annexed.

The most important auction of the day, although not the largest in results, was that conducted by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., who, at an executor's sale, by order of HENRY P. MCGOWN, executor of ANDREW MCGOWN, deceased, sold a large line of principally unimproved City property—forty-five lots in all—located on Ninety-fourth, Ninety-fifth, One Hundred and Third, One Hundred and Fourth, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth streets, respectively. Every lot was disposed of, and the result of the transactions eminently satisfactory, the total sum realized amounting to $129,430.

JAMES M. MILLER, also at an executor's sale, by order of the executors of THOMAS J. BLANCK, deceased, conducted another highly important auction, at which much improved and unimproved property was sold, and the sum of $174,950 in the aggregate realized. The sale embraced three houses and twenty-three lots, situated respectively on Hudson-street, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets, near Broadway, on One Hundred and Fifth-street, and on Seventh and Ninth avenues. All the property brought really fair prices, although some may be said to have been bargains. The Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth-street lots, near Broadway, were bought by parties interested in the estate, but those are said to have been the only ones in which the title did not pass to outside buyers.

ROBERTS & MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure under the decision of JAMES H. COLEMAN, Esq., referee, sold the premises known as No. 708 Broadway, east side, just north of Fourth-street. The buildings are comparatively worthless, but the lot is 25 feet front by 157 feet 6 inches in depth. WILLIAM L. JOHNSON purchased the property for $71,400, and obtained it cheap. The same firm, at a Sheriff's sale, also sold three lots on the west side of First-avenue, between Fifty-first and Fifty-second streets, at $2,000 per lot, also a low figure.

V. K. STEVENSON, SON & CO., B. P. FAIRCHILD, auctioneer, as another executor's sale, by order of SAMUEL CARDWELL, Esq., executor, disposed of four lots on the west side of Third-avenue, north of Forty-second-street, and two lots, with frame buildings thereon, on the east side of the same avenue, south of Forty-second-street, at excellent figures, the six lots bringing $96,150. At public auction, an unimproved full-lined lot, on the south side of Thirty-seventh-street, east of Madison-avenue, was sold by the same firm for $6,500.

A. J. BLESCKER, SON & CO., at public auction, sold four lots, with the buildings thereon, (the latter of little worth,) situated on the south-west corner of Broome and Essex streets, numbered respectively 237, 239, 231 and 233 Broome-street; the lots were sold to different purchasers, and for the plot, 75 by 64.3, the sum of $41,200 was realized. The premises No. 71 Essex-street, west side, near Broome-street, in the rear of the above property, were also offered, but although knocked down for $19,500, not sold. Messrs. BLESCKER & CO., in addition, disposed of a gore lot, No. 190 Fulton-street, south-west corner of Church-street, for $19,800.

JOHNSON & MILLER offered for sale four lots upon which is erected a frame cottage, located on the south-west corner of Ninth-avenue and Seventeenth-street, Brooklyn, near Prospect Park; also four lots on the south side of Seventeenth-street, in the rear of the lots first named. The corner lots with building were nominally sold to M. W. TYLER for $12,900, and the rear lots to the same buyer at the rate of $1,200 each. In the summary below we omit this sale, for as far as possible we desire to record only such sales as are really effected.

E. LUDLOW & Co. offered for sale the premises known as No. 52 Eighth-street, (St. Mark's-place,) New-York, east of Second-avenue, comprising a three-story and attic brick house and lot, 25 by 89.9. Bids amounting to $14,300 were made for the property, but this sum not coming up to the ideas of the owner, it was withdrawn.

Most of adjournments of Supreme Court sales in foreclosure as follows, closed the business of the day: By JAMES M. MILLER, sale of house and lot on the east side of Third-avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh streets, adjourned until March 10. By LAWRENCE, OAKLEY & FLEURY, sale of house and lot east side of Lexington-avenue, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, adjourned one week. By WILLIAM KENNELLY, sale of lot with stable thereon north side of Thirty-seventh-street, between Fifth and Madison avenues, adjourned until March 10.

In Brooklyn, at the Commercial Exchange, No. 389 Fulton-street, yesterday, three Supreme Court in foreclosure sales of some importance were effected by J. COLE as auctioneer, particulars in regard to which will be found below. The referees conducting the sales were, respectively, Messrs. H. C. INGRAHAM, C. C. BRADY, C. W. THOMAS and G. M. STEVENS. The attendance at the Exchange was quite large. Mr. COLE, also, made several legal sales on Monday, the only one of importance, however, being the sale of a small house and lot, 25 by 100, located on the north side of Floyd-street, 25 feet east of Tompkins-avenue. Sold to GEO. W. LUSH for $3,200.

The business proposed for to-morrow at the Exchange, in this City, is again of interest and worthy the attention of investors, sales being projected by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., E. H. LUDLOW & Co. and JAMES M. MILLER. At the City Exchange, in Brooklyn, WYCKOFF & LITTLE will offer some desirable property located in that city, and at the Consolidated Exchange, J. COLE as auctioneer, will conduct several legal sales. Full reports as to the result of all these various transactions will appear as usual in the column to-morrow.

The following private sales recently effected are reported:

By WM. KENNELLY, No. 4 Pine-street—Four-story brick store and lot, north-west corner of First-avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street, lot 23 by 100, sold to RICHARD G. DUFFY for $32,000.

By WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-street—Four lots south-west corner of Eighth-avenue and Seventy-fourth-street, 102.2 by 100, $62,400. These last-named lots, as reported, were sold by Mr. RAYNOR last week for $59,150.

OUR ENGLISH RELATIONS.

Arrival and Departure of Sir John A. Macdonald.

An Interview With the Canadian Commissioner.

A Free Expression of His Views on Questions at Issue.

What He Had to Say Concerning the Alabama Claims, the Canadian Fisheries, Reciprocity, Annexation, Fenian Claims, and Other Matters.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD, the Canadian Commissioner appointed by the British Government as a member of the Joint High Commission which is to deliberate on the Alabama claims, Canadian fisheries and other matters, arrived in this City yesterday morning, and left for Washington yesterday evening.

During the brief stay of Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD in New-York he was called upon by a reporter of the TIMES, and spoke freely of subjects on which the Commissioners will treat, and which are at this time of peculiar interest to the American reader. Before detailing the views of the Canadian Commissioner a few remarks regarding his personal appearance and previous career may not be inapropos. He is a man apparently about forty-five years of age and slightly over the middle height, and compactly built. He has somewhat prominent features, the clear outlines of which come out in bold relief, from the fact that he wears neither mustache, beard nor whiskers. His countenance reminds one of the well-known features of the great leader of the English Tory Party—DISRAELI. He is a native of Scotland, but emigrated with his parents to Canada when he was quite a boy. He studied law, and ten years ago had a very large practice. At that time, in fact, he had charge in the Canadian Courts of almost all leading cases in which residents of the United States were concerned. Accordingly he made at that time frequent visits to New-York. His ability as a lawyer, and particularly his knowledge of Canadian affairs, attracted the attention of the home Government. He has, accordingly, long held Government positions, and was recently appointed to represent Canada in the Joint Commission at Washington.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

In reply to the question of the TIMES reporter as to the general basis on which the Alabama claims were to be treated by the English Commission, Mr. MACDONALD replied that on that point he had received no instructions whatever. The Earl DE GREY AND RIPON had brought out the instructions, and they would be communicated to him (Sir JOHN MACDONALD) on his arrival at Washington.

REPORTER—You will, then, take part in the deliberations on the Alabama question, as well as in those on the subject of the Canadian fisheries?

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—Yes; the Commission is appointed to settle all the questions now at issue between the Government of the United States and that of Great Britain.

HOW THE COMMISSION CAME TO BE APPOINTED.

The manner in which this Commission came to be appointed does not, said the Commissioner from Canada, seem to be generally understood. The Canadian Government had made representations to the home Government regarding what the Canadians felt to be violations, by United states citizens, of the rights of the Canadians by sending them vessels to fish in Canadian waters. The home Government brought the matter to the attention of Sir EDWARD THORNTON, and he, pursuant to instructions, asked that a Joint Commission be appointed, to be composed of representatives of the United States and Great Britain, to settle the question. The Alabama claims had been and were then being strongly urged by the Government of the United States, both through its Ambassador, at London, and through Sir EDWARD THORNTON. The latter, either having suggested to the English Government the question of settling the Alabama claims at the same time as the fisheries question, or having been instructed by the home Government, proposed to the United States authorities a Joint Commission which should endeavor to come to an agreement on all questions now at issue between the two Governments. In this way the Commission, with its present objects, came to be appointed. What ground either the United States or the British Commissioners may take regarding the Alabama claims I do not now, of course, know, said the Canadian Commissioner. Any programme that may be marked out in advance will necessarily have to be altered as the labors of the Commission proceed and as the views of both sides are made known. In reply to a question as to what might be his own view as to the ground either side might take at the outset, Sir JOHN said that he had formed no opinion on the subject, and that even if he had he could not give expression to a private opinion in view of the official deliberations which were about to be entered on.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

On this subject, with the bearings of which the Canadian Commissioner seemed thoroughly conversant, he said the matter at issue was a very simple one and was generally understood. The Canadians complained that United States vessels had no right, according to all recognized usages, to fish in Canadian waters. Even in your own country, said he, one State, like Maine for example, resents any attempt upon the part of Connecticut to fish in the waters along the Maine coast. Canada only asks the same rights, which the various States of the Union demand in their relations with each other on the very same subject. It remains to be seen what views the American Commissioners will put forward in opposition to this, the Canadian view of the subject.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.

REPORTER—Would not a reciprocity treaty settle this matter?

COMMISSIONER—That is a subject for the United States to consider, and if the British and American Governments can agree upon such a treaty, mutually advantageous to the Canadians and the people of the United States, it might be beneficial. But there is this great difficulty in the way as was shown when a reciprocity treaty existed. The treaty was made between the two Governments, but it did not work equally well for both sides. The Americans had free use of the Canadian canals, but when the Canadians attempted to put into operation a corresponding privilege the State of New-York interfered. The canals were the property of the State, and the State did not recognize the right of the Federal Government to interfere in regard to them.

THE ANNEXATION QUESTION.

REPORTER—Is there not a strong and daily increasing party in Canada who believe that that country would be much benefited by annexation to the United States?

COMMISSIONER—No, it is not so. The Annexationist party is weak, both in numbers and influence. There are very few men of any prominence in Canada, or having much influence among the population, who entertain sentiments in favor of annexation.

REPORTER—How, then, do you account for the fact that all accounts which are received here from Canada represent the existence of a strong party in favor of annexation?

COMMISSIONER, (laughing)—Well, I suppose that, so far as the newspaper accounts are concerned, the correspondents write under instructions.

THE QUESTION OF AN INDEPENDENT CANADA.

REPORTER—Not only does the belief prevail there that there is a powerful annexationist party in Canada, but that, setting the question of annexation aside, there is an influential and numerous element in favor of separation from England and the establishment of complete Canadian independence.

COMMISSIONER—Of one thing I can assure you, that if Canada had to choose between complete independence and annexation to the United States, she would select the former. The Canadians, however, do not see what they could gain by separation from the Government, or by annexation to the United States. Canada is prosperous. In the administration of her own affairs she is as independent of the Imperial, as the various States of the Union are of the Federal Government. The feeling toward the home Government is of the most loyal character. Canadians are lightly taxed by the Provincial Parliament, and pay no revenues to the Imperial Government.

REPORTER—Except as a matter of prestige, what has England to gain by the possession of Canada? The Provincial Government does not even support the troops England sends over.

COMMISSIONER—The expense in that respect to England is now very slight, though there were two regiments there.

REPORTER—If Canada were annexed to the United States or were independent, the trade with her would, I think, increase immensely.

COMMISSIONER—I do not think that the commercial relations between the two Governments would be altered in either of those events, as the question of supply and demand would still remain the same. As Canada, neither you nor I will live to see a separation of Canada from the Imperial Government.

THE FENIAN RAIDS.

REPORTER—I understand that the British Commissioners will bring up the question of compensation for damages caused to Canadian citizens by the Fenian raids.

COMMISSIONER—Well, the Canadian people, I believe, are under the belief that the United States will take them in as a part of the Alabama claims, a plea for compensation for damages caused during the rebellion by Confederate raids from Canada, urged as an offset a right to compensation on the ground of the Fenian raids. These questions are comparatively slight issues in the general question, and will, I presume, have to be settled entirely upon the proof of actual loss caused to the citizens of the United States and Canada respectively.

With this the interview ended.

The Fisheries in the Dominion Senate—Discussion of the Headland Question.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28.—Hon. Mr. MITCHELL, Minister of Marine and the Fisheries, spoke in the Senate last night on the fishery question, reviewing the whole question. In the course of his remarks he said:

Headland right was based on the law of nations. He quoted in support of his argument the opinion of DANIEL WEBSTER. He said the only question the Canadian Government proposed to be settled was the geographical limit of three miles from the coast, whether from headland to headland, or to follow the indentation of the coast.

Senator L. D. ST. JUST thought before England would run the chances of a war she would sacrifice some of our fishery rights.

Senator MITCHELL opposed this idea, and felt assured that if the representative from Canada on the Commission would never agree to the resignation of our rights without obtaining the consent of Parliament and the people of Canada.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

The William Haw, Jr. Coterie, is an organization named in honor of the courteous but unflinching champion of sound Republicanism as opposed to Ring allurements in Yorkville, who occupied the chair of the Woodford and Kauffman Campaign Club, during the Gubernatorial contest. The members of the coterie who have been giving their best energies to the perfection of that machinery by which political reform is so materially aided, intend for the nonce to rest from their labors and abandon themselves to "mirth and measured steps," and to-night they will give a reception at Harlem Music Hall, corner of One Hundred and Thirtieth-street and Third-avenue. A large number of invitations have been issued and it is expected that many fair ones will be present to participate in the festivity.

An inquest was held yesterday, by Coroner YOUNG, in the case of JOHN CRONIN and THOMAS SCANLON, who were killed by the explosion of a stand-blast in Ninth-avenue, near Nineteenth-street, on the 20th ult. The evidence adduced was to the effect that the blasting had been done in as careful a manner as possible. The hole had been drilled four or five feet, and a charge of powder nine inches deep had been placed therein and covered with sand, as a preparation for a sand blast, which being fired off missed fire. A sufficient time was permitted to elapse before the workmen approached it, when they proceeded to "puddle" the hole with water. A few minutes after the powder exploded and the deceased were killed. The jury decided to render a verdict of accidental death, expressing the opinion that all proper precautions had been taken.

In pursuance of a call issued by the North American Gruetli Bund, a union of Swiss societies attending throughout the United States, action has been taken by the Gruetli Verein, of this City, to raise funds for the relief of the Swiss residents at Paris, who are very numerous in the French capital, most of whom, like the Parisians themselves, are destitute in consequence of the siege. The funds thus raised among the Swiss in this country will be forwarded to the Swiss Government by the Swiss Consul-General, Mr. J. HITZ. Arrangements are being made for a mass meeting in reference to this matter, which is to come off in a few days.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, CALEB GIDEON was convicted of stealing $100 worth of clothing, and sentenced to the State Prison for four years. JAMES SMITH was convicted of stabbing ALEXANDER E. BYRNES, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for eighteen months. Both are lads of about eighteen years of age. In passing sentence the Recorder expressed his determination to deal severely in all similar cases in which the knife or pistol is used.

The Charles G. Cornell Association enjoyed its annual invitation ball at Irving Hall last evening, under very favorable auspices. There was a large and brilliant attendance, a host of Mr. CORNELL's personal friends being present. The arrangements of the Committee were executed in the most acceptable manner and afforded general satisfaction.

Yesterday Judge WOODRUFF affirmed the decree of Judge BLATCHFORD in the case of PHILIP FITZPATRICK and others against 800 barrels of cotton and 288 barrels of molasses, and ordered EDWARD TURNER, the claimant for the Union, and WALTER B. T. JONES and JAMES A. WHITLOCK, the sureties on appeal, to pay the appellees the sum of $23,096 62.

JANE FITZPATRICK, who was arrested last night for intoxication, attempted suicide in the Eleventh Ward Police Station by hanging herself to the door of her cell with a pocket-handkerchief. She was cut down and resuscitated. ELIZA GEALEY, of No. 165 Leonard-street, swallowed laudanum last night with suicidal intent. She was removed to the Park Hospital for treatment.

Commissioner SHIELDS visited Bellevue Hospital, yesterday, for the purpose of taking the testimony of FRANCIS ABBOT, one of the colored sailors alleged to have been cruelly treated by Capt. PEABODY and his mates, of the ship Neptune. The witness was suffering from such severe injuries as to prevent his removal to the Court-room.

A course of three lectures by Rev. Dr. DEEMS is announced, to be delivered in the Church of the Strangers, Mercer-street, between Clinton-place and Waverley-place. They will be given on the first three Tuesdays in March. The opening lecture for next Tuesday evening is entitled "Courting and Marrying," and is said to be in the Doctor's happiest vein.

PATRICK WILSON, aged thirty, residing in Seventieth-street near Tenth-avenue, was instantly killed yesterday by the fall of a derrick in Sixty-eighth-street, while hoisting a heavy stone on a building. THOMAS SEALLY, another workman, was also dangerously injured at the same time, besides two others slightly.

CHARLES RUDOLPH, a cigar-dealer, doing business in Eighth-avenue, near Thirtieth-street, was arrested, yesterday, on a charge of not making proper entries of his purchases, and of selling cigars in unstamped boxes. He was held in $3,000 bail by Commissioner SHIELDS for examination.

PETER LANGAN, thirty-six years of age, a native of Ireland, fell down stairs yesterday morning at No. 128 Chrystie-street, and was so badly injured that he expired soon after. An inquest was held by Coroner KEENAN, and a verdict of accidental death rendered.

City Chamberlain BRADLEY yesterday paid into the City Treasury $6,940 36, interest received on public moneys during February. During his term of office Mr. BRADLEY has paid into the City Treasury from this source $114,377 68.

There were nine sudden deaths reported to the Coroners yesterday, six of them being those of children. The Coroners held inquests during the day, and ascertained that they had all resulted from natural causes.

VICTORIA C. WOODHULL, of the firm of WOODHULL, CLAFLIN & CO., is to deliver her "Argument for Constitutional Equality" at Cooper Institute, this evening.

BROOKLYN.

EUGENE O'NEIL, residing on York-street, near Hudson-avenue, was stabbed in the right arm, yesterday morning, in a liquor-saloon at the corner of High and Bridge streets, by a man named KANE. They had been drinking together, and the affair grew out of a discussion on some political subject. KANE escaped and has not yet been arrested.

Considerable consternation was created among many of the large real estate owners of the city, yesterday, by the discovery of the fact that the counsel for the Sing Sing Commissioners had, under direction of the Inspector of Public Buildings, commenced action against one hundred of the principal property-holders for violating the law regulating the construction of public buildings. The penalty attached to this misdemeanor is $250 fine, or imprisonment for six months, or both, at the discretion of the Court. The defendants have declared their intention to fight the matter to the end, and with that view have engaged the legal services of Mr. P. KEADY.

The Water Commissioners and their Aldermanic friends visited the seat of the proposed new reservoir in Hempstead Valley, yesterday, and at the conclusion of their labors drank a large quantity of wine at the expense of the city. The Mayor, on account of ill-health, was unable to be present.

The Excise Commissioners are busily engaged in prosecuting the unlicensed whisky dealers of the city. Yesterday Inspector HARTE had the following persons arrested and arraigned before Justice WALSH: William Myer, Andrew Kelsey, Julia Gross, Andrew Matthews, Francis Brunk, Robert Kolts, Betsey Schweitzer, Daniel Sullivan, Ernest Hagenbarch, Jacob Fesler and Mary Deignan. They will be examined today.

LONG ISLAND.

KELLY & DEVINE have been jointly indicted for the murder of GARRETT W. NOSTRAND, by the Queens County Grand Jury. KELLY protests his innocence. He says he was not with DEVINE when the assault was made. He says he met DEVINE, and the latter told him he had leveled NOSTRAND. He told DEVINE if he had done anything wrong he did not want his company. DEVINE persisted in remaining with him, and he drove him away. DORUS DEREMAN has been indicted for the murder of her child. GEORGE SALTER, confined on a charge of seduction, has been discharged.

Hon. JOHN J. ARMSTRONG, County Judge, delivered a lecture last night before the Manhasset Lyceum Association, in their hall in that village. Hon. WM. H. ONDERDONK, President of the Lyceum, introduced the speaker. The subject, "Everyday Duties," was treated by Mr. ARMSTRONG with great force and originality.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

It is understood that the Grand Jury, on Monday, found a true bill of indictment against JACOB LEUENBURGER, who caused the death of Miss FREDERICA MEYER, at Sing Sing, on the 14th ult., by shooting her with a pistol. It is believed, however, that he cannot live very long, inasmuch as the wound which he inflicted upon himself has taken an unfavorable change.

The arguments of counsel in the Bussing will case before Surrogate COFFIN of Westchester County, were heard at the Court-house, White Plains, yesterday. The Surrogate took the papers and reserved his decision.

NEW-JERSEY.

An appeal is being made to the friends of Princeton College for contributions to erect upon the College grounds a public library, as a depository for all the books at the institution, and, in a particular manner, for the safe keeping of the books secured by the fund of the "Elizabeth Foundation," a fund of $6,000 per annum given to the College for the purchase of books, by Mr. JOHN C. GREEN, of New-York. The present library of the College contains about 28,000 volumes.

Popular agitation in Woodside on the question of annexation to Newark is quite lively. The anti-annexationists held a meeting on Monday night, and gave as their principal objection against the measure the consequent high taxation. They resolved to divide the township into four districts, and to appoint officers to act as a Board of Freeholders in laying out streets, &c. The friends of the measure will hold a meeting during the week.

A colored man named CHARLES S. MANNING, of Jersey City, entertained another son of Ham, who was in a state of want on Monday night, and, when the family arose, yesterday morning, they found their guest had vanished, and with him a silver watch. He gave his name as RELICKS and represented himself as a musician.

The Board of Water Commissioners of Jersey City have awarded the contract for the erection and completion of the new reservoir to Messrs. MITCHELL and BRIDGEFORD, they having agreed to execute the work for $163,000. The highest bid was nearly $500,000.
